APPENDIX A

IN THE UNITED STATES COURT OF APPEALS
FOR THE SEVENTH CIRCUIT

No. 03-1786

SABRI I. SAMIRAH,
Plaintiff-Appellee,
v.

CYNTHIA J. O'CONNELL, INTERIM DISTRICT DIRECTOR FOR INTERIOR ENFORCEMENT, BUREAU OF IMMIGRATION AND CUSTOMS ENFORCEMENT, Defendant-Appellant.

No. 03 C 1298
Appeal from the United States District Court for the Northern District of Illinois, Eastern Division.
James B. Moran, Judge.

ARGUED JUNE 5, 2003—DECIDED JULY 2, 2003

Before FLAUM, Chief Judge, and COFFEY and MANION, Circuit Judges.

MANION, Circuit Judge. After the government revoked the advance parole of Sabri Samirah, an alien, the district court ordered advance parole to be reinstated. Because that order exceeded the district court's jurisdiction, we reverse.

I.

Sabri Samirah is a Jordanian citizen who first entered the United States in September 1987 on a student visa. According to the government, however, Samirah did not comply with the terms of his visa. At some point he dropped out of school and out of lawful immigration status for more than two years. Years of legal battles between Samirah and the government ensued. We examine that long legal history only insofar as it is relevant to the narrow issue before us.

In 2002, Samirah, who was still classified as an alien, filed a request for advance parole, stating that he intended to travel abroad for approximately two weeks in May 2003. (Advance parole, as we shall explain in detail later, is basically permission for a resident alien to reenter the United States after departing for some stated purpose.) The Immigration and Naturalization Service (INS)[1] approved this application, pursuant to 8 U.S.C. § 1182(d)(5), in December 2002. Samirah then departed the United States on December 28, 2002, which was about four months earlier than he had represented to the INS. On January 17, 2003, while Samirah was abroad, the District Director of the Chicago INS Office, acting on behalf of the Attorney General, revoked his advance parole because the INS had received information that he was a "security risk to the United States." On January 18, 2003, the INS served this revocation on Samirah at its pre-inspection station in Shannon International Airport, Ireland. It also concluded that, because Samirah had more than one year of unlawful presence in the United States and lacked a valid travel document, he was inadmissible under 8 U.S.C. § 1182(a)(7)(A)(i). With no advance parole and no documents (e.g., a visa) that would allow his entry into the United States, Samirah returned to Jordan. Although it is not clear from the record where Samirah resides at the moment, one thing is certain: he is not in the United States. This is particularly [1] On March 1, 2003, the INS ceased to exist as an independent agency within the United States Department of Justice, and its functions were transferred to the newly-formed Department of Homeland Security. See 79 Interpreter Releases 1777, 1777 (2002). The transition is irrelevant for our purposes and, for ease of use, we shall refer to the INS throughout this opinion.

disturbing to Samirah because his children are all citizens of the United States who reside in this country, and his wife is a non-citizen who also resides here.

On February 20, 2003, Samirah's attorney filed an action in the district court seeking, among other things, injunctive relief requiring the government to allow his return to the United States. He asserted jurisdiction under Article I, § 9 of the Constitution and various federal statutes, including 28 U.S.C. § 2241, which provides to federal courts the general power to grant the writ of habeas corpus. The district court issued an injunction requiring the government to allow Samirah's return, reasoning that "the only thing we conclude is that the government cannot short-circuit the rights of an alien who has long lived in the United States by revoking his parole and then treating him as if he had never been here at all." The government appeals, asserting, among other arguments, that the district court lacked jurisdiction.

II.

To understand this case, we first need to examine the function that parole plays in our system of immigration law. The Attorney General[2] has the discretion to "parole" aliens into the United States. 8 U.S.C. § 1182(d)(5)(A) (2000). Parole allows an alien temporarily to remain in the United

[2] During the period when Samirah's advance parole was revoked, the Attorney General had delegated his parole authority to his INS district directors. See 8 C.F.R § 212.5 (2002). In this case, as discussed above, the actual decision to revoke parole was made by the District Director of the Chicago INS Office, Brian R. Perryman. We nonetheless refer to the "Attorney General" as exercising this discretionary authority because, as far as the law is concerned, district directors act as the Attorney General's surrogate when exercising the discretionary authority that he has delegated to them. See Parra v. Perryman, 172 F.3d 954, 957-58 (7th Cir. 1999) (discussing the "Attorney General's" discretionary decision to detain an alien pending removal, even though District Director Perryman was the named respondent).

States pending a decision on his application for admission. Id. § 1182(d)(5). Although a paroled alien has "liberty to roam the country," the law considers him legally detained at the border within the government's custody until his immigration status is determined. Chavez-Rivas v. Olsen, 207 F. Supp. 2d 326, 328 (D.N.J. 2002). In some cases (this is one of them), the Attorney General grants advance parole to an alien who is already in the United States but who also wants the assurance that he will be allowed to leave and return. Assa'ad v. United States Atty. Gen., ___ F.3d ___, 2003 WL 21282457, at *3 (11th Cir. June 5, 2003); 5 Charles Gordon, et al., Immigration Law and Procedure § 62.02[2], at 62-13 (Rev. ed. 2003). The Attorney General also has the discretion to revoke advance parole after it has been granted. 8 U.S.C. § 1182(d)(5)(A); 8 C.F.R. § 212.5(e)(2)(i). After determining that Samirah was a security risk, the Attorney General exercised that discretion and revoked his advance parole.

The district court, however, reversed the decision to revoke parole and candidly determined that a parole revocation could not have the legal effect of destroying whatever rights Samirah had to contest removal. The district court thought it a "judicial responsibility" to require the executive branch to adhere to its obligations. It thus concluded that "the government cannot short-circuit the rights of an alien who has long lived in the United States by revoking his parole and then treating him as if he had never been here at all," (emphasis added) and it then ordered the government to allow Samirah's return.

We must determine whether federal courts have subject matter jurisdiction to review discretionary decisions of the Attorney General, such as the decision to revoke parole. We review de novo the existence of subject matter jurisdiction. Iddir v. INS, 301 F.3d 492, 496 (7th Cir. 2002). First, we examine Congress's jurisdictional grant in the non-habeas context. The government cites 8 U.S.C. § 1252(a)(2)(B)(ii) for the proposition that Congress has divested federal courts of such jurisdiction. Section 1252(a)(2)(B)(ii) provides as follows:

> (B) Denials of discretionary relief
> Notwithstanding any other provision of law, no court shall have jurisdiction to review— . . .
> (ii) any other decision or action of the Attorney General the authority for which is specified under this subchapter to be in the discretion of the Attorney General, other than the granting of relief under section 1158(a) of this title.

The authority for the Attorney General to grant and revoke parole stems from § 1182(d)(5),[3] a provision that is "specified under" the "subchapter" mentioned in § 1252(a)(2)(B)(ii). (Subchapter II of Chapter 12 of Title 8, includes §§ 1151-1378.) The exercise of that authority is, as we mentioned earlier, a matter of the Attorney General's discretion. Hence, argues the government, the plain language of § 1252(a)(2)(B)(ii) precludes jurisdiction. Samirah, apparently relying on the fact that § 1252 is titled "Judicial review of orders of removal," argues that the provision is inapplicable because "there is neither a removal order nor [are there] removal proceedings in this case." Some district courts have taken this position, holding that § 1252(a)(2)(B)(ii) is limited to discretionary decisions made within the context of removal proceedings. See, e.g., Talwar v. INS, 94 F. Supp. 2d 1120, 1124 (D. Or. 2000); Shanti v. Reno, 36 F. Supp. 2d 1151, 1159 (D. Minn. 1999).

We, however, disagree. "[T]he heading of a section cannot limit the plain meaning of the text." Brotherhood of Railroad

[3] 8 U.S.C. § 1226 also allows the Attorney General to grant or revoke parole in cases in which an alien has been detained, but that is irrelevant to this case because the INS expressly relied on § 1182(d)(5) and because it did not detain Samirah.

Trainmen v. Baltimore & Ohio R. Co., 331 U.S. 519, 528-29 (1947). The plain meaning of § 1252(a)(2)(B)(ii)'s text is that "no court shall have jurisdiction to review" any decision of the Attorney General to deny discretionary relief "specified under this subchapter." We therefore join two of our sister circuits and a number of district courts in holding that § "1252(a)(2)(B)(ii) is not limited to discretionary decisions made within the context of removal proceedings." CDI Information Servs. Inc. v. Reno, 278 F.3d 616, 620 (6th Cir. 2002); accord Van Dinh v. Reno, 197 F.3d 427, 434 (10th Cir. 1999); El-Khader v. Perryman, No. 02 C 984, 2003 WL 1790862, at *3 (N.D. Ill. Apr. 2, 2003); Systronics Corp. v. INS, 153 F. Supp. 2d 7, 11 (D. D.C. 2001); Avramenkov v. INS, 99 F. Supp. 2d 210, 214 (D. Conn. 2000). Because the Attorney General's decision to grant or revoke parole is squarely within the ambit of § 1252(a)(2)(B)(ii), we hold that the district court lacked jurisdiction to review, much less reverse, the revocation of Samirah's parole—at least outside the context of a habeas proceeding.

Samirah alleges habeas jurisdiction under 28 U.S.C. § 2241, and contends that § 1252(a)(2)(B)(ii) does not preclude a court from granting the writ. There is authority for the proposition that, pursuant to INS v. St. Cyr, 533 U.S. 289 (2001), § 1252(a)(2)(B)(ii) should not be construed as stripping federal courts of habeas jurisdiction over challenges to the INS's parole determinations. See Sierra v. INS, 258 F.3d 1213, 1217 (10th Cir. 2001); Jeanty v. Bulger, 204 F. Supp. 2d 1366, 1374 (S.D. Fla. 2002). But see Curri v. Reno, 86 F. Supp. 2d 413, 421 (D. N.J. 2000) (holding, without the benefit of the Supreme Court's opinion in St. Cyr, that § 1252(a)(2)(B)(ii) repeals habeas jurisdiction). Nevertheless, § 1252(a)(2)(B)(ii)'s effect on habeas jurisdiction is an issue that we need not address today. The district court lacked jurisdiction under § 2241 for at least two reasons, neither of which involves § 1252(a)(2)(B)(ii). The first reason is that Samirah was not in custody when he filed this case. The second is that, even if he could somehow be considered to have been in custody, the district court would still have lacked jurisdiction over his custodian.

Federal courts have jurisdiction to issue writs of habeas corpus under § 2241 only where the petitioner is "in custody in violation of the Constitution or laws or treaties of the United States." 28 U.S.C. § 2241(c); Williams v. Chrans, 894 F.2d 928, 937 (7th Cir. 1990). Although the word "custody" is elastic, all definitions of it incorporate some concept of ongoing control, restraint, or responsibility by the custodian. See Black's Law Dictionary 384 (6th ed. 1990). In the context of Miranda warnings, for example, a suspect is in custody only if a reasonable person in his position would not believe that he was free to leave. United States v. Salyers, 160 F.3d 1152, 1159 (7th Cir. 1998). Samirah's problem is not that he lacks freedom to leave; Samirah's problem is that, by dint of the government's revocation of his parole and his lack of the proper documents, he is not free to return. But the United States is exercising no ongoing control, restraint or responsibility over him. As far as the government is concerned, Samirah may wander the earth, so long as his wanderings do not lead him to the United States. Samirah is, in some sense, restrained insofar as he cannot enter the United States. But that restraint, such as it is, only puts him on par with the billions of other non-U.S. citizens around the globe who may not come to the United States without the proper documentation.[4] Nevertheless, Samirah does point to one authority that could be read as construing § 2241 jurisdiction to encompass such people.

[4] We recognize that Samirah, like many aliens seeking entry to this country, has family in the United States. Although we are sympathetic as to why that raises the stakes for him, we know of no authority for the idea that having family in the United States changes the analysis of custody. We also note, moreover, that he finds himself in that position because he lived here for many years, often with dubious authority. During that time he made what was, at best, a series of half-hearted attempts to improve his immigration status.

Samirah quotes Jones v. Cunningham, 371 U.S. 236 (1962), to the effect that the Supreme Court "has repeatedly held that habeas corpus is available to an alien seeking entry into the United States, although in those cases each alien was free to go anywhere else in the world." Id. at 239. Taking that statement out of context, it would be reasonable to infer that all aliens seeking entry into the United States, regardless of their otherwise unfettered mobility outside of this country, are in United States custody. The Ninth Circuit, albeit with little analysis, has interpreted Jones as standing for the proposition that, by itself, "denial of entry amounts to a restraint on liberty" sufficient to constitute custody for purposes of § 2241. See Subias v. Meese, 835 F.2d 1288, 1289 (9th Cir. 1987).[5]

We disagree with the Ninth Circuit's construction of Jones because, when interpreted as a whole, Jones does not support such a broad conclusion.[6] The Jones Court qualified the sweeping statement that Samirah quotes by noting that "custody" requires at least some restraint that is "not shared by the public generally" and that such restraints had "been thought sufficient in the English-speaking world to support the issuance of habeas corpus." Jones, 371 U.S. at 240. Thus, [5] Subias involved a fugitive from United States prosecution who claimed to be "in custody" in his native Mexico and, because he was denied entry to the United States, also claimed that he was entitled to habeas relief. Based on Jones, the Ninth Circuit acknowledged that custody is broadly construed to include restriction from entry into the United States, but denied habeas relief on the ground that there was no jurisdiction over any custodian.

[6] Because this opinion creates a split between circuits, we circulated it in advance of publication to the judges of the court in regular active service, pursuant to Seventh Circuit Rule 40(e). None voted to hear the case en banc.

a proper reading of Jones leads to the conclusion that an alien abroad who seeks entry into the United States must, at the very least,[7] suffer some unique restraint that would, in light of historical precedent, constitute custody for the purposes of habeas jurisdiction. See id.

Samirah does not clear that hurdle. Neither of the two cases he cites is precedent for a court to exercise habeas jurisdiction over an undocumented alien merely because that alien was refused entry into the United States. In Arias v. Rogers, 676 F.2d 1139, 1142 (7th Cir. 1982), we held that an alien released on bond pending deportation proceedings was in custody, and in Flores v. INS, 524 F.2d 627, 629 (9th Cir. 1975), the Ninth Circuit held that an alien released on his own recognizance during a departure period was likewise in custody. There is, of course, substantial authority for the idea that a person released on bond, or on his own recognizance, is "in custody" for purposes of habeas jurisdiction. 26 A.L.R. 4th 455, § 3(a) (1983). But Samirah is not released on bond, or his own recognizance, and so his case is easily distinguished from both Arias and Flores.

We further note that Jones himself was a United States citizen, and that not one of the four cases the Jones Court cited for the proposition that it had "repeatedly held that habeas corpus is available to an alien seeking entry into the [7] Although we need not address the issue today, we note that it is not clear that federal courts may exercise extraterritorial jurisdiction over an alien bringing a habeas petition. Compare Johnson v. Eisentrager, 339 U.S. 763, 771 (1950) (observing that "in extending constitutional protections beyond the citizenry the Court has been at pains to point out that it was the alien's presence within its territorial jurisdiction that gave the Judiciary the power to act"), and Gherebi v. Bush, ___ F. Supp. 2d ___, 2003 WL 21180433 (C.D. Cal. 2003) (holding that a district court lacks habeas jurisdiction over aliens detained outside U.S. territory), with Ahmed v. Department of Homeland Sec., 328 F.3d 383, 385-87 (7th Cir. 2003) (holding that the district court had jurisdiction over the petition for the writ of mandamus of an alien abroad).

United States, although in those cases each alien was free to go anywhere else in the world" proves analogous to Samirah's situation or supports the proposition that there may be habeas jurisdiction over an alien abroad merely because he was refused entry. See Jones, 371 U.S. at 239 (citing Brownnell v. Shung, 352 U.S. 180, 183 (1956); Shaughnessy v. United States ex rel. Mezei, 345 U.S. 206 (1953); United States ex rel. Knauff v. Shaughnessy, 338 U.S. 537 (1950); United States v. Jung Ah Lung, 124 U.S. 621, 626 (1888)). In Brownell, the alien brought a declaratory action under the Administrative Procedure Act in order to challenge an order of deportation; he did not bring a habeas action. Brownell, 352 U.S. at 182-86. In Mezei, the alien was detained by the government, and effectively imprisoned on Ellis Island, because the United States had permanently excluded him on security grounds and no other country was willing to accept him. Mezei, 345 U.S. at 207. In Knauff, a case in which the Court did not discuss jurisdiction, the alien was likewise "detained at Ellis Island." Id. at 539. In Jung Ah Lung, the alien was detained by the master of a steamship under color of federal law (the Chinese Restriction Act), and was therefore considered to be in federal custody for purposes of habeas jurisdiction. Jung Ah Lung, 124 U.S. at 626. None of these cases even remotely supports the idea that an alien abroad who is denied entry is, for that reason alone, in United States custody.

Samirah is a Jordanian citizen (apparently) living in Jordan. He is also a person over whom the United States exercises no control or responsibility, and who (as far as the government is concerned) is free to travel the world. Nevertheless, Samirah contends that he is in federal custody. We disagree with Samirah's argument be cause (1) it stretches the word "custody" beyond what the English language or logic will bear, and (2) legal authorities do not support it. We therefore hold that the district court lacked jurisdiction over Samirah's § 2241 petition.

There is an also an alternate ground for our holding that the district court lacked § 2241 jurisdiction. If Samirah is to proceed under § 2241, he must name his custodian as respondent and file the petition in a district court that has jurisdiction over his custodian; otherwise, the district court would lack jurisdiction. Montenegro v. United States, 248 F.3d 585, 594 (7th Cir. 2001), overruled on other grounds by Ashley v. United States, 266 F.3d 671, 674-75 (7th Cir. 2001). The custodian, in most cases, "is the person having a day-to-day control" over the petitioner, because he "is the only one who can produce 'the body' of the petitioner." Guerra v. Meese, 786 F.2d 414, 416 (D.C. Cir. 1986) (holding that the Parole Commission was not the custodian despite its power to release the petitioner). Samirah has named Cynthia J. O'Connell, Interim Director for Interior Enforcement at the Bureau of Immigration and Customs Enforcement, as the respondent. Yet it is clear that neither she, nor any other governmental official, has "day-to-day" control over, or can produce, Samirah. Samirah is free, we emphasize once again, to travel the world at his leisure. Because O'Connell lacked control over Samirah at the time his § 2241 action was filed, she was not his custodian.

We note that there may be limited circumstances in which the United States holds a prisoner abroad (and there is thus no domestic forum where the custodian is present) in which a petitioner may be allowed to file a habeas action in a district where someone with control over his body is located. For example, in Ex Parte Hayes, 414 U.S. 1327 (1973), a soldier on active duty in Germany filed a petition for a writ of habeas corpus directly with Justice Douglas. Id. at 1328-29. Justice Douglas reasoned that, although the serviceman's immediate commanding officer was outside the territorial limits of any district court, others in his chain of command were not. Id. The Secretary of the Army, for example, was located within the jurisdiction of the District Court for the District of Columbia. Justice Douglas therefore transferred the case to that court. Id. In the unusual circumstances of that case, an extraterritorially-detained petitioner had access to the writ in the District of Columba.

Even in Hayes, however, the "custodian" located in the District of Columbia could physically produce the body to the district court. That is not so in this case. Here, neither the named respondent, nor anyone else in the federal government (much less someone physically present in the Northern District of Illinois), could produce the body. We hold that no custodian was within the district court's territorial limits when this case was filed, and that court therefore lacked habeas jurisdiction. See Subias, 835 F.2d at 1289 (holding that jurisdiction did not exist because the petitioner's location abroad and custodian were unknown and, therefore, no governmental official could produce the body).

III.

The district court lacked jurisdiction over Samirah's § 2241 petition because he was not in custody and because it lacked jurisdiction over his putative custodian. Section 1252(a)(2)(B)(ii) bars jurisdiction over of the rest of Samirah's action. The latter holding once again drives home the point that federal courts are courts of finite jurisdiction, jurisdiction that Congress delineates. See Aldinger v. Howard, 427 U.S. 1, 15 (1976). Section 1252(a)(2)(B)(ii) makes clear that one of the subjects beyond any statutory grant of jurisdiction, at least outside the context of a habeas proceeding, is review of the Attorney General's discretionary decision to revoke parole. Because the district court lacked the jurisdiction to reinstate Samirah's advance parole, we reverse.

REVERSED.

APPENDIX B

UNITED STATES COURT OF APPEALS
FOR THE SEVENTH CIRCUIT
Chicago, Illinois 60604

[Filed Mar. 27, 2003]

No. 03-1789

SABRI I. SAMIRAH,
Plaintiff-Appellees,

v.

CYNTHIA J. O'CONNELL, INTERIM DISTRICT DIRECTOR FOR INTERIOR ENFORCEMENT, BUREAU OF IMMIGRATION AND CUSTOMS ENFORCEMENT, Defendant-Appellant.

No. 03 C 1298
Appeal from the United States District Court for the Northern District of Illinois, Eastern Division.
James B. Moran, Judge.

The following are before the court:

1. MOTION TO FILE BRIEF IN EXCESS OF TWENTY PAGES, files on March 26, 2003, by counsel for the appellant.
2. RESPONDENT-APPELLANTS EMERGENCY MOTION FOR STAY PENDING APPEAL, submitted on March 26, 2003, by counsel for the appellant.
3. RESPONDENT'S MOTION IN OPPOSITION TO STAY OF ENFORCEMENT OF JUDGE MORAN'S ORDER, filed on March 26, 2003, by counsel for the appellee.

IT IS ORDERED that the motion for leave to file a brief in excess of twenty pages is GRANTED. The clerk of this court shall file INSTANTER the tendered copies of the motion for stay pending appeal.

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that the motion for stay pending appeal is GRANTED. The order of the district court dated March 25, 2003, is stayed pending appeal. In the motion, the government has represented to the court that a stay will cause only moderate delay. The government provides "[m]oreover, where, as here, the matter involves national security, staying the district court's order so that the alien need experience only a moderate delay during which time, the appellate court can resolve the important issues presented in this case, is warranted." See Appellant's Emergency Motion for Stay at p. 23, citing Dellinger v. Mitchell, 442 F.2d 782, 786 (D.C. Cir. 1971). We construe this language as a government waiver of the 90-day period of 8 U.S.C. § 1229b(d)(2). The appellee's only complaint is that he may suffer legal detriment if a stay is granted. But if on appeal it is determined that the appellee was improperly excluded, he will be free to pursue any legal argument that would have been originally available to him. Accordingly,

IT IS THEREFORE ORDERED that the 90-day period of 8 U.S.C. § 1229b(d)(2) is hereby equitably tolled. If an appeal it is determined that the appellee has been improperly excluded, this exclusion will not affect his pending application for adjustments of status.

IT IS FINALLY ORDERED that briefing in this appeal is EXPEDITED and will proceed as follows:

1. The brief and required short appendix of the appellant is due no later than April 16, 2003.

2. The brief of the appellee is due no later than May 7, 2003.

3. The reply brief of the appellant, if any, is due no later than May 19, 2003.

The parties are advised that the briefs must be received in the clerk's office by the specified dates.

Oral argument in this matter will be heard during the week of June 2, 2003, and will be set by separate court order.

[2] THE CLERK: 2003 C 1298, Samirah versus Ashcroft, et al.

MR. FLESSNER: Good afternoon, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Good afternoon.

MR. FLESSNER: Mark Flessner, Melissa Bien and Chuck Roth on behalf of the plaintiff, Dr. Sabri Samirah.

MR. OSWALD: Good afternoon, Your Honor.

Craig Oswald, Sheila Entenman from the U.S. Attorney's office on behalf of the United States, and this is Douglas Ginsburg from the office of immigration and litigation for the Department of Justice in Washington.

THE COURT: Well, given time constraints, this is not exactly a Law Review piece, but I will give it my best shot.

Petitioner is a citizen of Jordan. He has lived in the United States for 15 years. His wife has applied for adjustment of status to become a legal permanent resident. He has three children, all born here and therefore citizens of the United States. He has received graduate degrees here and was employed here prior to his departure to Jordan. He has applied for adjustment of status to legal permanent resident, derivative of his wife's status.

Some months ago petitioner wished to visit his ill mother in Jordan. He applied for and received an advance parole on December 4, 2002. That advance parole was necessary for the continuation of his application for adjustment of [3] status which would otherwise be deemed abandoned if he left the country. Petitioner left later that month.

On January 17, 2003, his parole was revoked ostensibly because he was a security risk. At this juncture we have not been provided with any information that supports the notion that the government granted the advance parole and then revoke it for the purpose of having him leave the country and not be able to return.

Returning to the United States on January 18, 2003, petitioner was routed through Shannon, Ireland. Shannon is a preinspection station: that is, the status of aliens is reviewed there, and those deemed inadmissible are not permitted to continue on to the United States. Petitioner was deemed inadmissible and was not allowed to continue.

If he had left on a flight to the United States from airport not designated as a preinspection station, his admissibility would have been determined upon arrival in this country.

I think it would be useful to begin by stating what is clearly not in dispute and what this case is not about. It is clearly undisputed that an alien seeking to come to the United States for the first time has virtually no rights. He or she can be excluded at a preinvestigation station abroad and has no right to return to either the Article II immigration courts or the Article III courts.

[4] This Court has no jurisdiction to question the discretionary act of granting or not granting an advance parole. The petitioner concedes that this Court has no jurisdiction to overturn the discretionary act of revoking the parole. That concession is possibly a little broad in view of Balogun versus United States Attorney General, 304 F.3d 1303, Eleventh Circuit, 2002, where our Judge Cudahy recognized that a person returning has to demonstrate that he was admissible, and the petitioner there could not because he statutorily was inadmissible because of two prior felony convictions. He did there suggest that advance parole was guaranteed if the petitioner was prima facie-eligible for an adjustment of status. But that is not relevant one way or the other to the determination here.

Further, this Court does not have the right to second-guess a determination that someone is a security risk. Finally, this Court has no authority to grant an adjustment of status.

But none of these matters, so far as I am concerned, is dispositive of the claims for relief here. Petitioner wishes to be permitted to return and return expeditiously so as not to have to face a contention that he has abandoned his application for adjustment of status by being out of the country too long. He claims he has not been legally removed because the appropriate procedures were not followed.

[5] The government claims that the removal procedures for illegal aliens who make it here do not apply because there is no need for any removal process if the alien was prohibited from coming into the United States at a reinspection station, here, Shannon Ireland. According to the government, the petitioner is in the position of being an alien seeking to come to the United States and being foreclosed from that admission prior to ever reaching a port of entry.

We note in passing that there is something somewhat anomalous about rights depending upon the vagaries of flight itineraries since presumably if the petitioner had had a direct flight not through a reinspection station airport, he would have arrived in the United States and been accorded the removal procedures required by the statutes.

We note as well that what happened here has a kind of "gotcha" quality that I personally feel is somewhat demeaning to this country. The government in effect is saying that it made a mistake in granting parole and that, subsequently realizing it had made a mistake, it should be able to use that mistake to its advantage to eliminate rights that the petitioner otherwise would have. But neither of those observations leads to a decision here.

The petitioner, a citizen of Jordan, was a resident of this country for 15 years. His spouse is an applicant for legal permanent residency. They have three children, all of [6] them citizens. The petitioner has either been going to school here or been employed here during that period, and his home is in the Chicago area. Can, in these circumstances, a parole revocation have the legal effect of destroying what rights petitioner has had to contest the removal and of ending the government's obligation to follow the statutory procedures in affecting a removal? We think not.

Landon versus Plasencia, 459 U.S. 21, 1982, among others, recognizes that an alien admitted to this country has developed over time a gradually ascending collection of rights. The government recognizes that to be so, but contends those rights are accorded only to aliens who have reached the status of permanent resident alien. We do not agree. The opinions do not make that distinction and, indeed, the concept of a gradually ascending continuum of rights is inconsistent with the notion of a particular legal status. The Supreme Court in Landon refers to continuously present resident alien which the petitioner certainly was prior to his brief trip to Jordan. That concept was earlier recognized in Johnson versus Eisenstrager, 339 U.S. 763, 1950, upon which the government heavily relies, where the Court recognized a continuum of ascending rights as an alien increased his identity with our society. We do not think that the government's refusal to permit the petitioner to return squares with that concept.

The government directs us to cases such as Shaughnessy [7] versus United States, 325 U.S. 206, 1953, where an alien has been legally prevented from reentering the United States following a lengthy departure. The Supreme Court determined in Shaughnessy that an alien who left for 19 months without any type of permission from the government could legally be kept out of the-country without due process. If there is a "clean break" in the alien's continuous residency in the country, any constitutional protections acquired during the stay in the United States are effectively waived.

Here there is no such indication of waiver. Petitioner left the United States for a short period of time to visit his ill mother in Jordan and did so only after his application for advance parole was granted. The legal significance of the advance parole is not as important as the fact that petitioner clearly demonstrated his intent to return to this country.

While petitioner may be entitled to something less than a full pre-deprivation hearing, he has certainly moved up the consequence continuum of constitutional protection. Whether the government claims to be excluding or removing the petitioner is not important. In either case, the constitution protects the rights acquired during petitioner's time in the United States.

In view of-those rights, we do not believe that the government can lawfully refuse to permit the petitioner to [8] return unless it has been determined that he is not lawfully admissible. Courts may not interfere with the discretionary functions of the Attorney General, but it is certainly a judicial responsibility to require the Executive branch to adhere to its statutory obligations. 8 USC section 1229a prescribes that an immigration judge shall conduct proceedings for deciding the admissibility or deportability of an alien. That has not happened.

Of course, this Court cannot and should not direct the government to initiate removal proceedings, but if it, the government, wishes to remove petitioner, that is the route that it must follow. If such a proceeding is initiated, then the immigration judge, an Article II judge in the Executive department, may have to determine some of the issues alluded to in the rather, I would say, very voluminous briefs here, such as whether the petitioner was not wholly accurate in some of his filings and what the legal effect of that might be. Again, this Court does not have jurisdiction to hear that matter initially or at any time thereafter.

In the meantime, the only thing we conclude is that the government cannot short-circuit the rights of an alien who has long lived in the United States by revoking his parole and then treating him as if he had never been here at all.

This result is the same regardless of whether we construe petitioner's claim as a habeas petition, a prayer for [9] relief under the APA or a mandamus action. While Landon allowed an alien outside the United States to file a habeas petition seeking constitutional due process, the APA would likewise not allow the government to deprive petitioner of a protected right without the statutorily required process. A removal hearing as created by the INA would satisfy these requirements, but a simple preinspection proceeding would not.

Finally, if all other avenues were closed off to the petitioner, he would be permitted to seek mandamus relief. In any case, once petitioner has begun to climb up the continuum of constitutional rights, these rights may not be deprived without due process.

Accordingly, we enjoin the government from denying petitioner's return to Chicago as a port of entry on the ground that he has not been lawfully removed. What the government may thereafter initiate is not before the Court.

MR. FLESSNER: Your Honor, being the eternal optimist, we took the liberty of drafting an order. I am going to hand a copy of it to Mr. Oswald for his review and hand it to Mr. Haynes to let you take a look at it.

Given the time frame, as you know, it is eight hours ahead in Amman right now. We would respectfully request that the information be transferred to the U.S. Embassy in Amman immediately, such that, he has reserved a flight, and such that he can get his travel documents tomorrow which would be [10] Wednesday in Amman and get on a plane immediately to return to the United States.

THE COURT: Well, the order just carries out what I have just provided. So I will sign it. I then will give you a signed copy, and you can—

MR. OSWALD: Your Honor, we would move for a stay pending—

THE COURT: and I won't stay it.

MR. OSWALD: Okay, that's fine, Your Honor, but I am not sure exactly—I understand what Your Honor's order is, and if this is what Your Honor wants us to carry out, but I am not sure that any of this is specifically responsive to—I am not sure that the United States Embassy in Amman, Jordan, is the place where we would go to effectuate this. I mean, we can discuss this with Mr. Flessner. I am not sure exactly that this is the way that this would be carried out.

MR. FLESSNER: If he were obtaining a visa, he would go to the embassy in Amman. We took the liberty of getting on the Internet to make sure the embassy is open and has resumed operations on Sunday.

THE COURT: Well, why don't we just put in paragraph three, "Defendants must transmit the travel documents to the United States Embassy in Amman, Jordan, or wherever else as may be necessary."

MR. FLESSNER: We accept that amendment. If you just [11] want to pen that in there, we can go back and type it, do whatever you want.

MR. GINSBURG: Well, Your Honor, I guess I am wondering about if this really is putting into effect the Court's ruling, because the Court found no jurisdiction regarding the issue of the revocation of his advance parole, which was his travel document. Now the Court is ordering the issuance of the travel document.

THE COURT: I am issuing—that is what I am ordering, yes.

MR. FLESSNER: We don't care what they call it.

THE COURT: If the government wants to initiate removal proceedings as soon as he hits Chicago, they are entitled to do so. But he is entitled to be heard.

MR. FLESSNER: And we don't care what they call the travel document, whatever they want to call it, we just want him here in the United States.

MR. OSWALD: Okay, so whatever gets in here, Judge, in terms of a document, that's what you want issued according to your order.

THE COURT: Right.

MR. OSWALD: Okay.

THE COURT: So why don't we just put in after Jordan, "or wherever else it may be necessary."

MR. FLESSNER: To effectuate the order, I think is the [12] points.

MR. OSWALD: I just don't—well—

MS. ENTENMAN: Could we have a moment, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Sure.

MR. OSWALD: Judge, here is what the problem is. I don't know when his flight is or what he has got specifically. I mean, in terms of trying to do that. I don't know, to commit us to get him here by March 28th. I mean, we want to—

THE COURT: Well, he is the person who got the flight.

MR. OSWALD: Right, and he is the one that's got—

MS. ENTENMAN: Could we have a moment.

THE COURT: Sure.

MS. ENTENMAN: Thank you.

(Discussion off the record.)

MR. FLESSNER: I am told that he has booked a flight on Turkish Airlines, and it's to depart Amman on Thursday, Amman time. So we have tomorrow. Again, it's now, if my math is correct, it's somewhere after 1 a.m. in the morning in Amman. So we have eight hours tomorrow to get the documents to him so he can get on the flight the fol lowing day.

MR. OSWALD: Judge, we are just not sure why we need three if we have two.

THE COURT: I'm sorry?

MR. OSWALD: Paragraph three, if we have paragraph two, I am just not—

[13] THE COURT: You are probably right, as long as everybody understands that the more specific three is subsumed within two, let's just have the government do what's necessary so that he can catch his flight.

MR. FLESSNER: Obviously, I assume they are going to act in good faith. I am a lawyer. I just want to make sure—I mean, I don't want just the documents issued and then he not have them. Obviously, the whole purpose of this is that he has the documents so he can get on the plane so he can travel to the United States. If we all understand that, then obviously three can be deleted.

THE COURT: And I am deleting it.

And I suppose the people who it is easiest to initiate all this is you.

MR. OSWALD: Yes. I think we will be talking to our bosses and finding out what they want to do with this, you know, pending the ruling. But we will do whatever we have to do until we are told we can stop.

MR. GINSBURG: If I can raise one more point, Your Honor, and that's regarding the date, the March 28th date for the implementation of this. As we have said before, there is nothing about cancellation of removal, which seems to be the fact and which is expiring that date, in the petition. I think it was clearly spread out in the briefs that there is no constitutional right to cancellation of removal if you apply [14] for cancellation. So whether or not he's found inadmissible has to be put in a hearing of some sort to do that. It has nothing to do with applying for cancellation of removal and forcing us to comply with this.

THE COURT: Well, except the government has taken the position that it's a provision in the statute, it's not waiveable, and that automatically, therefore, if he if he doesn't get back here by March 28th, it will be an irrebuttable presumption of having abandoned his application.

MR. GINSBURG: But whether that's true or not, there is no constitutional right to cancellation, and if the purpose of this—

THE COURT: I think we get him here by the 28th.

MR. OSWALD: Okay, Judge. Thank you, Your Honor.

MR. FLESSNER: Can we have a signed copy of the order, Your Honor?

THE CLERK: I will make a copy of it for you. Just give me. a minute. I will make a coy for you.

MR. FLESSNER: Okay. Thank you, Your Honor. Thank you very much

(Proceedings concluded.)

CERTIFICATE

I, K. Joseph Snyder, do hereby certify that the foregoing is a complete, true, and accurate transcript of the proceedings had in the above-entitled case before the Honorable JAMES B. MORAN, one of the judges, of said Court, at Chicago, Illinois, on March 25, 2003.

Immigration and Naturalization Service

Authorization for Parole of an Alien into the United States

Family Name: SAMIRAH, SABRI IBRAHIM
DateIssued: 12/04/2002
Date of Birth: 01/01/1967
County of Birth: JORDAN
Address: 7540 W WHEELER DR. ORLAND PARK IL 60462

Presentation of this document will authorize a transportation line to accept the name bearer on board to travel to the United States without liability under section 273 of the Immigration and Nationality Act for bringing an alien who does not have a visa.

Presentation of the original of this document prior to 12/04/2003 will authorize an immigration officer at a port of entry in the United States to permit the name bearer, whose photograph appears hereon, to enter the United States:

X As an alien paroled pursuant to section 212(d)(5) of the Immigration and Nationality Act.

AUTHORIZATION: The named bearer was authorized to depart the United States temporarily for bona fide business or personal reasons and intends to return to the United States to await the adjudication of his/her application for adjustment of status filed under the Immigration and Nationality Act (Act). Contingent upon the applicant's prima facie eligibility, this authorization is valid for multiple applications for parole into the United States during the validity of the parole authorization noted above. Each parole period is not to exceed one year from the date of parole at the port-of-entry.

NOTICE TO APPLICANT: Presentation of this authorization will permit you to resume your application for adjustment of status upon your return to the United States, if otherwise admissible under the Act. If your adjustment application is denied, you may be subject to removal proceedings under sections 235(b)(1) or 240 of the Act. If after April 1, 1997, you depart the United States after you were unlawfully present in the United States for more than 180 days before applying for adjustment of status, you may be found inadmissible under section 212(a)(9)(B)(i) of the Act and may not be permitted to enter when you return to the United States to resume the processing of your application. If found inadmissible, you will need to apply and qualify for a waiver of inadmissibility outside of the United States in order for your adjustment of status application to be approved.

INS INSPECTOR'S FIELD MANUAL

Chapter 16 Special Classes 1

INS Manuals § [16.1]

§ [16.1] [Parole]

[Editor's Note: In the INS Inspector's Field Manual materials received from INS under the Freedom of Information Act, a quantity of material from the beginnning of section 16.1, including the section title, all of subsection (a), and the title and beginning text of subsection (b), was omitted. The materials received from INS began at a point within subsection (b).]

[Editor's Note: Subsection (a) omitted in Inspector's Field Manual materials received from INS under Freedom of Information Act.]

(b)—

[Editor's Note: Subsection (b) title and beginning of subsection text omitted in IFM materials received from INS under Freedom of Information Act. In the materials received from INS, the text begins mid-sentence as follows:] imaged ADIT-style photograph, and the facsimile stamp of the district director for the issuing district. [Approximately one line of text omitted here by INS, invoking exemption under Freedom of Information Act.] The terms and conditions of parole, including the duration of the parole, are specified on the form. When an advance authorization is prepared by a consular official rather than an immigration officer, it will be issued on Department of State letterhead. These letters are commonly referred to as "transportation letters" or "boarding letters" since they are addressed to the transportation line and absolve the line of liability for the fine ordinarily incurred when a carrier transports an alien without a required visa.

Ordinarily, processing of paroles is handled in secondary, where there is time to access automated systems to verify the request. When you encounter an I-512 or boarding letter during the inspection process, examine it closely. Counterfeit and altered forms have been encountered. Question the applicant concerning the basis of their parole, to determine if his or her explanation and the basis on which the parole was issued are consistent. For example, an alien who has not previously been in the U.S. should not have a parole document indicating a pending adjustment or asylum application as the basis of issuance.

Once you are satisfied that the person is entitled to parole, endorse the I-94 with the parole stamp, indicate in the appropriate block the basis of parole (e.g. "I-512, adjustment applicant"), the date to which paroled (or indefinite), the date of action, port and your stamp number. Similarly endorse the action block on the I-512 and the alien's passport. If the I-512 is valid for a single entry, collect it and forward it to the files control office where the advance parole was issued. If the I-512 is valid for multiple entries, return it to the applicant, after making a photocopy for forwarding to the issuing office. If the alien parolee is permitted employment and does not have an employment authorization document advise the applicant about filing procedures. Special handling procedures described in Chapter 15.11 also apply to holders of Forms I-512 who are nationals of the affected countries. Handle the I-94 arrival and departure sections in the same manner as other nonimmigrant Forms I-94.

(c)—Port-of-entry paroles.

Local policy control procedures for authorization of most paroles at ports-of-entry. Parole is often an appropriate alternative for emergent medical treatment or other similar situations. Unlike a request for an advance parole, a request for parole at a port of entry requires neither a fee nor an application. Except for paroles of less than 1 day for border functions or certain NATO activities as described in Chapter 11.2, every parole action requires preparation of Form I-94, endorsed with the parole stamp as described above. In any case where an alien passenger arriving by air or sea is paroled because he or she lacks the proper visa, consider institution of fine proceedings against the carrier, as discussed in Chapter 43. In addition, prepare Form I-160, which is retained at the portof-entry as a record of the action taken. Institute fine proceedings, when applicable.

(d)—Parole of crewmembers.

Policies and procedures for parole of alien crewmembers are discussed in Chapter 23.12

(e)—Parole for deferred inspection.

Procedures for parole of aliens whose inspection is deferred are discussed in Chapter 17.1

(f)—Special Interest paroles.

Service informants and aliens entering as witnesses in criminal cases may be paroled only upon the authorization of the district director, chief patrol agent, or his specified delegate, based on a request by an assistant district director for Investigations. Parole in such instances is to be used only when an applicant is not admissible under any other provision of law. The entry and departure of such parolees must be carefully monitored. If a parole request originates from another Federal, State or local agency, it may be granted only when it is in writing, from the highest ranking official of the agency having jurisdiction over the area. The written request must contain a statement that the entry is required for official purposes, the expected duration and an explanation of how the parolee will be maintained while present in the U.S.

Paroles at the request of the Drug Enforcement Agency (DEA) are considered separately in paragraph (g), below.

(g)—Paroles for DEA purposes.

Requests for parole by the DEA generally involve large international drug trafficking investigations. Most defendants and witnesses in such cases are inadmissible to the U.S. for various reasons. In order to insure such requests are justifiable and necessary in support of the DEA mission, these requests are to be coordinated through DEA Headquarters. Immigration officers receiving such requests locally should advise Headquarters, Inspections Division.

If a local DEA agent requests that a witness, defendant or informant be re-paroled, given advance parole or allowed to remain in the U.S. when out of status, first time requests may be granted locally by the district director for a period not to exceed 6 months. Subsequent requests for such cases should be routed through DEA Headquarters.

(h)—Conditional Entrants, Refugee-Parolees, Lautenberg Parolees and Others.

Over the years the Attorney General, acting through the Service, has used his or her authority to admit or parole various groups of individuals who may or may not have the characteristics of, and identify themselves as, refugees. These groups of individuals are different from those admitted as refugees under section 207 of the Act or those granted asylum under section 208 of the Act. In order to determine the various types of benefits for which they may be eligible, it is necessary to have a working knowledge of the terms and groups involved:

> DISPLACED PERSONS—Under the Displaced Persons Act of 1948, the first legislation enacted specifically for refugees in the nation's history, the United States admitted more than 400,000 persons who were displaced by World War II and its aftermath. Someone admitted in this category is eligible to be issued a Refugee Travel Document.

HUNGARIAN REFUGEES—Under the Hungarian Refugee Act of July 25, 1958, persons who were paroled into the United States as refugees from the Hungarian uprising of October 1956, and who had been in such parole status for at least two years, could be reinspected and admitted to the United States for permanent residence, without regard to the immigrant visa requirement. Someone paroled in this category is eligible to be issued a Refugee Travel Document.

CUBAN PAROLEES—Since 1959 several hundred thousand Cubans have been paroled into the United States. Under legislation enacted November 2, 1966, such individuals who have been physically present in the U.S. can apply for adjustment of status to that of LPR. Permanent in such cases is granted as of the date of the person's entry into the United States or thirty months prior to the date the person applied for adjustment, whichever is later. Someone paroled in this category is not eligible to be issued a Refugee Travel Document.

CONDITIONAL ENTRANTS—Prior to the 1980 Refugee Act, the United States admitted persons fleeing from persecution in communist countries of the Eastern Hemisphere and in countries within the general area of the Middle East under section 203(a)(7) of the Act. Under a proviso to that section, a limited number of individuals who were already in the United States could apply for adjustment to conditional entrant status. After two years in the United States (which was later reduced to one year) as a conditional entrant, the alien could be reinspected and admitted for permanent residence. Someone admitted in this category is eligible to be issued a Refugee Travel Document.

REFUGEE-PAROLEES—Prior to May 18, 1980, the Service used its authority in section 212(d)(5) of the Act to parole certain refugees into the United States, including many who, while fearing persecution, were not from communist countries or countries within the general area of the Middle East. Such persons were allowed to apply for adjustment of status after two years (later reduced to one year) in the United States. Someone' paroled in this category is eligible to be issued a Refugee Travel Document.

VICAM REFUGEES—Following the fall of South Vietnam and Cambodia in 1975; the United States paroled more than 400,000 persons from Indochina. Under legislation enacted on October 28, 1977, those individuals (and certain others who were already in the United States in nonimmigrant or parolee status on March 31, 1975) were allowed to adjust to LPR status. Someone paroled in this category is eligible to be issued a Refugee Travel Document.

CUBAN-HAITIAN ENTRANTS—An estimated 125,000 Cubans from the port of Mariel, Cuba the United States shortly after the enactment of the Refugee Act of 1980. There were also a considerably smaller number of Haitian nationals who entered the United States at about the same time. These individuals were not classified as refugees, but rather as "entrants." Beginning in 1984, the Service began adjusting those Cubans entrants who were otherwise admissible to LPR status under the provisions of the 1966 Cuban Adjustment Act. The status of Cuban/ Haitian entrants was not finally resolved until the enactment of the Immigration Reform and Control Act of 1986 (IRCA), which included special legislative provisions. Someone in this category is NOT eligible to be issued a Refugee Travel Document.

LAUTENBERG PAROLEES—As part of a program under the Lautenberg Amendment first included in the Department of State's appropriation bill for FY 1990, and extended thereafter, certain individuals from the former Soviet Union, or from Estonia, Latvia or Lithuania, who are found to be ineligible for refugee classification are offered parole by the Service. Those individuals include (but are not necessarily limited to) Jews, Evangelical Christians, and Ukrainian Christians of the Orthodox and Roman Catholic denominations. Prior to mid-1994, Lautenberg paroles were also offered to certain Vietnamese, Cambodians, and Laotians. After one year in the United States, parolees under the Lautenberg Amendment can apply for adjustment of status to that of LPR under section 245 of the Act, without regard to quota. Someone paroled in this category is NOT eligible to be issued a Refugee Travel Document.

(Former paragraph (h) redesignated (i), new paragraph (h) added IN98-14)

(i)—Reparoles.

Whenever you change the purpose or duration of a parole, a new I-94 must be prepared and processed. Collect the original departure section and forward it for data entry with the new arrival section. Give the new departure section to the alien. (Redesignated IN98-14)

(j)—Termination of Parole.

Under section 212(d)(5) of the Act, when the purposes of a parole have been served, the paroled alien is to be returned to the custody from which he or she was paroled and his or her case is to be dealt with in the same manner as that of any other applicant for admission. If such alien is found to be admissible, he or she may be admitted (if necessary, with the approval of an appropriate If not found admissible, the alien may be allowed to withdraw his or her application for admission and depart, or the alien may be prepared for removal proceedings. If the alien was paroled into the United States after arriving as a crewman, stowaway, VWPP applicant or S nonimmigrant, the alien is not entitled to formal proceedings; otherwise, the type of removal proceeding involved depends upon the manner in which parole was authorized, whether the alien met the definition of arriving alien at time of parole, and the inadmissibility charge(s) being lodged:

> 1. If the alien's parole was authorized pursuant to an Advance Authorization for Parole (Form I-512) which was issued while the alien was in the United States in order to allow the alien to return to this country, the expedited removal process does not apply and the alien should be placed in removal proceedings under section 240 of the Act as an inadmissible alien, regardless of the grounds of inadmissibility.
> 2. If the alien does not meet the definition of "arriving alien" contained in 8 CFR 1.1(g), the expedited removal process does not apply and the alien should be placed in removal proceedings under section 240 of the Act.
> 3. If neither 1 nor 2 apply, and the alien is inadmissible under sections 212(a)(6)(C) and/or 212(a)(7), he or she shall be processed under the provisions of the expedited removal program in accordance with section 235(b)(1)(A)(i) of the Act and chapix 17.15 of this manual.
> 4. If neither 1 nor 2 apply, and the alien is inadmissible under grounds other than, or in addition to (if the Service decides to apply such additional charges), sections 212(a)(6)(C) or 212(a)(7), the alien will be prepared for removal proceedings under section 240 of the Act.

An alien who is in the expedited removal process and who expresses fear of persecution or torture, or a desire to apply for asylum, must be referred for a credible fear determination by an asylum officer. If such alien is found to have a credible fear of persecution, the alien shall be referred to an immigration judge for a removal hearing under section 240 of the Act.

However, if an alien whose parole has been terminated has already been found to have a credible fear of persecution (e.g., as part of the original decision to parole the alien), there is no need for a referral to an asylum officer for a new credible fear determination. Instead, the alien should be referred directly to an immigration judge for a removal hearing under section 240 of the Act. In so referring the alien, the processing officer shall follow the procedures set forth in chapter 17.6. Form I-862 shall indicate that the alien is an arriving alien (block 1) and that the notice is being issued after an asylum officer has found that the respondent has demonstrated a credible fear of persecution, in addition to listing the allegations, specifications and other information which must be provided. The record of proceeding file should also contain a copy of any credible fear determination made previously.

If an alien whose parole has been terminated, and who was previously found to have a credible fear of persecution, states in his or her sworn statement that he or she no longer has a fear of persecution or torture and that he or she wishes to withdraw his or her application for admission and depart, the processing officer may allow the alien to do so in lieu of processing the case for a hearing. The officer must make sure that the alien is making an informed decision. The officer may wish to consult with the Asylum Office before proceeding. However, if the alien does not wish to withdraw his or her application for admission and depart from the United States, the officer must process the case for a hearing under section 240 before the immigration judge. The processing officer does not have an option of issuing an expedited removal order. (Added IN98-14)

Clause 4. Naturalization and Bankruptcy

To establish an uniform Rule of Naturalization, and uniform Laws on the subject of Bankruptcies throughout the United States;

* * * *

U.S. Const. Amend. V

Fifth Amendment—Rights of Persons

No person shall be held to answer for a capital, or otherwise infamous crime, unless on a presentment or indictment of a Grand Jury, except in cases arising in the land or naval forces, or in the Militia, when in actual service in time of War or public danger; nor shall any person be subject for the same offence to be twice put in jeopardy of life or limb; nor shall be compelled in any criminal case to be a witness against himself, nor be deprived of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law; nor shall private property be taken for public use, without just compensation.

U.S. Const. Amend. XIV.

Fourteenth Amendment—Rights Guaranteed Privileges and Immunities of Citizenship, Due Process and Equal Protection

Section. 1. All persons born or naturalized in the United States and subject to the jurisdiction thereof, are citizens of the United States and of the State wherein they reside. No State shall make or enforce any law which shall abridge the privileges or immunities of citizens of the United States; nor shall any State deprive any person of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law; nor deny to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws.

Section. 2. Representatives shall be apportioned among the several States according to their respective numbers, counting the whole number of persons in each State, excluding Indians not taxed. But when the right to vote at any election for the choice of electors for President and Vice President of the United States, Representatives in Congress, the Executive and Judicial officers of a State, or the members of the Legislature thereof, is denied to any of the male inhabitants of such State, being twenty-one years of age, and citizens of the United States, or in any way abridged, except for participation in rebellion, or other crime, the basis of representation therein shall be reduced in the proportion which the number of such male citizens shall bear to the whole number of male citizens twenty-one years of age in such State.

Section. 3. No person shall be a Senator or Representative in Congress, or elector of President and Vice President, or hold any office, civil or military, under the United States, or under any State, who, having previously taken an oath, as a member of Congress, or as an officer of the United States, or as a member of any State legislature, or as an executive or judicial officer of any State, to support the Constitution of the United States, shall have engaged in insurrection or rebellion against the same, or given aid or comfort to the enemies thereof. But Congress may by a vote of two-thirds of each House, remove such disability.

Section. 4. The validity of the public debt of the United States, authorized by law, including debts incurred for payment of pensions and bounties for services in suppressing insurrection or rebellion, shall not be questioned. But neither the United States nor any State shall assume or pay any debt or obligation incurred in aid of insurrection or rebellion against the United States, or any claim for the loss or emancipation of any slave; but all such debts, obligations and claims shall be held illegal and void.

Section. 5. The Congress shall have power to enforce, by appropriate legislation, the provisions of this article.

UNITED STATES CODE

TITLE 8—ALIENS AND NATIONALITY
CHAPTER 12—IMMIGRATION AND NATIONALITY
SUBCHAPTER II—IMMIGRATION
PART I—SELECTION SYSTEM

8 U.S.C. § 1153 (2004).

Sec. 1153. Allocation of immigrant visas

(a) Preference allocation for family-sponsored immigrants Aliens subject to the worldwide level specified in section 1151(c) of this title for family-sponsored immigrants shall be allotted visas as follows:

(1) Unmarried sons and daughters of citizens

Qualified immigrants who are the unmarried sons or daughters of citizens of the United States shall be allocated visas in a number not to exceed 23,400, plus any visas not required for the class specified in paragraph (4).

(2) Spouses and unmarried sons and unmarried daughters of permanent resident aliens

Qualified immigrants—

(A) who are the spouses or children of an alien lawfully admitted for permanent residence, or

(B) who are the unmarried sons or unmarried daughters (but are not the children) of an alien lawfully admitted for permanent residence, shall be allocated visas in a number not to exceed 114,200, plus the number (if any) by which such worldwide level exceeds 226,000, plus any visas not required for the class specified in paragraph (1); except that not less than 77 percent of such visa numbers shall be allocated to aliens described in subparagraph (A).

(3) Married sons and married daughters of citizens

Qualified immigrants who are the married sons or married daughters of citizens of the United States shall be allocated visas in a number not to exceed 23,400, plus any visas not required for the classes specified in paragraphs (1) and (2).

(4) Brothers and sisters of citizens

Qualified immigrants who are the brothers or sisters of citizens of the United States, if such citizens are at least 21 years of age, shall be allocated visas in a number not to exceed 65,000, plus any visas not required for the classes specified in paragraphs (1) through (3).

(b) Preference allocation for employment-based immigrants Aliens subject to the worldwide level specified in section 1151(d) of this title for employment-based immigrants in a fiscal year shall be allotted visas as follows:

(1) Priority workers

Visas shall first be made available in a number not to exceed 28.6 percent of such worldwide level, plus any visas not required for the classes specified in paragraphs (4) and (5), to qualified immigrants who are aliens described in any of the following subparagraphs (A) through (C):

(A) Aliens with extraordinary ability

An alien is described in this subparagraph if—

(i) the alien has extraordinary ability in the sciences, arts, education, business, or athletics which has been demonstrated by sustained national or international acclaim and whose achievements have been recognized in the field through extensive documentation,

(ii) the alien seeks to enter the United States to continue work in the area of extraordinary ability, and

(iii) the alien's entry into the United States will substantially benefit prospectively the United States.

(B) Outstanding professors and researchers

An alien is described in this subparagraph if—

(i) the alien is recognized internationally as outstanding in a specific academic area,

(ii) the alien has at least 3 years of experience in teaching or research in the academic area, and

(iii) the alien seeks to enter the United States—

(I) for a tenured position (or tenure-track position) within a university or institution of higher education to teach in the academic area,

(II) for a comparable position with a university or institution of higher education to conduct research in the area, or

(III) for a comparable position to conduct research in the area with a department, division, or institute of a private employer, if the department, division, or institute employs at least 3 persons full-time in research activities and has achieved documented accomplishments in an academic field.

(C) Certain multinational executives and managers

An alien is described in this subparagraph if the alien, in the 3 years preceding the time of the alien's application for classification and admission into the United States under this subparagraph, has been employed for at least 1 year by a firm or corporation or other legal entity or an affiliate or subsidiary thereof and the alien seeks to enter the United States in order to continue to render services to the same employer or to a subsidiary or affiliate thereof in a capacity that is managerial or executive.

(2) Aliens who are members of the professions holding advanced degrees or aliens of exceptional ability

(A) In general

Visas shall be made available, in a number not to exceed 28.6 percent of such worldwide level, plus any visas not required for the classes specified in paragraph (1), to qualified immigrants who are members of the professions holding advanced degrees or their equivalent or who because of their exceptional ability in the sciences, arts, or business, will substantially benefit prospectively the national economy, cultural or educational interests, or welfare of the United States, and whose services in the sciences, arts, professions, or business are sought by an employer in the United States.

(B) Waiver of job offer

The Attorney General may, when he deems it to be in the national interest, waive the requirement of subparagraph (A) that an alien's services in the sciences, arts, professions, or business be sought by an employer in the United States.

(C) Determination of exceptional ability

In determining under subparagraph (A) whether an immigrant has exceptional ability, the possession of a degree, diploma, certificate, or similar award from a college, university, school, or other institution of learning or a license to practice or certification for a particular profession or occupation shall not by itself be considered sufficient evidence of such exceptional ability.

(3) Skilled workers, professionals, and other workers

(A) In general

Visas shall be made available, in a number not to exceed 28.6 percent of such worldwide level, plus any visas not required for the classes specified in paragraphs (1) and (2), to the following classes of aliens who are not described in paragraph (2):

(i) Skilled workers

Qualified immigrants who are capable, at the time of petitioning for classification under this paragraph, of performing skilled labor (requiring at least 2 years training or experience), not of a temporary or seasonal nature, for which qualified workers are not available in the United States.

(ii) Professionals

Qualified immigrants who hold baccalaureate degrees and who are members of the professions.

(iii) Other workers

Other qualified immigrants who are capable, at the time of petitioning for classification under this paragraph, of performing unskilled labor, not of a temporary or seasonal nature, for which qualified workers are not available in the United States.

(B) Limitation on other workers

Not more than 10,000 of the visas made available under this paragraph in any fiscal year may be available for qualified immigrants described in subparagraph (A)(iii).

(C) Labor certification required

An immigrant visa may not be issued to an immigrant under subparagraph (A) until the consular officer is in receipt of a determination made by the Secretary of Labor pursuant to the provisions of section 1182(a)(5)(A) of this title.

(4) Certain special immigrants

Visas shall be made available, in a number not to exceed 7.1 percent of such worldwide level, to qualified special immigrants described in section 1101(a)(27) of this title (other than those described in subparagraph (A) or (B) thereof), of which not more than 5,000 may be made available in any fiscal year to special immigrants described in subclause (II) or (III) of section 1101(a)(27)(C)(ii) of this title.

(5) Employment creation

(A) In general

Visas shall be made available, in a number not to exceed 7.1 percent of such worldwide level, to qualified immigrants seeking to enter the United States for the purpose of engaging in a new commercial enterprise—

(i) which the alien has established,

(ii) in which such alien has invested (after November 29, 1990) or, is actively in the process of investing, capital in an amount not less than the amount specified in subparagraph (C), and

(iii) which will benefit the United States economy and create full-time employment for not fewer than 10 United States citizens or aliens lawfully admitted for permanent residence or other immigrants lawfully authorized to be employed in the United States (other than the immigrant and the immigrant's spouse, sons, or daughters).

(B) Set-aside for targeted employment areas

(i) In general

Not less than 3,000 of the visas made available under this paragraph in each fiscal year shall be reserved for qualified immigrants who establish a new commercial enterprise described in subparagraph (A) which will create employment in a targeted employment area.

(ii) "Targeted employment area" defined

In this paragraph, the term "targeted employment area" means, at the time of the investment, a rural area or an area which has experienced high unemployment (of at least 150 percent of the national average rate).

(iii) "Rural area" defined

In this paragraph, the term "rural area" means any area other than an area within a metropolitan statistical area or within the outer boundary of any city or town having a population of 20,000 or more (based on the most recent decennial census of the United States).

(C) Amount of capital required

(i) In general

Except as otherwise provided in this subparagraph, the amount of capital required under subparagraph (A) shall be $1,000,000. The Attorney General, in consultation with the Secretary of Labor and the Secretary of State, may from time to time prescribe regulations increasing the dollar amount specified under the previous sentence.

(ii) Adjustment for targeted employment areas

The Attorney General may, in the case of investment made in a targeted employment area, specify an amount of capital required under subparagraph (A) that is less than (but not less than 1/2 of) the amount specified in clause (i).

(iii) Adjustment for high employment areas

In the case of an investment made in a part of a metropolitan statistical area that at the time of the investment—

(I) is not a targeted employment area, and

(II) is an area with an unemployment rate significantly below the national average unemployment rate, the Attorney General may specify an amount of capital required under subparagraph (A) that is greater than (but not greater than 3 times) the amount specified in clause (i).

(6) Special rules for "K" special immigrants

(A) Not counted against numerical limitation in year involved

Subject to subparagraph (B), the number of immigrant visas made available to special immigrants under section 1101(a)(27)(K) of this title in a fiscal year shall not be subject to the numerical limitations of this subsection or of section 1152(a) of this title.

(B) Counted against numerical limitations in following year

(i) Reduction in employment-based immigrant classifications

The number of visas made available in any fiscal year under paragraphs (1), (2), and (3) shall each be reduced by 1/3 of the number of visas made available in the previous fiscal year to special immigrants described in section 1101(a)(27)(K) of this title.

(ii) Reduction in per country level

The number of visas made available in each fiscal year to natives of a foreign state under section 1152(a) of this title shall be reduced by the number of visas made available in the previous fiscal year to special immigrants described in section 1101(a)(27)(K) of this title who are natives of the foreign state.

(iii) Reduction in employment-based immigrant classifications within per country ceiling

In the case of a foreign state subject to section 1152(e) of this title in a fiscal year (and in the previous fiscal year), the number of visas made available and allocated to each of paragraphs (1) through (3) of this subsection in the fiscal year shall be reduced by 1/3 of the number of visas made available in the previous fiscal year to special immigrants described in section 1101(a)(27)(K) of this title who are natives of the foreign state.

(c) Diversity immigrants

(1) In general

Except as provided in paragraph (2), aliens subject to the worldwide level specified in section 1151(e) of this title for diversity immigrants shall be allotted visas each fiscal year as follows:

(A) Determination of preference immigration

The Attorney General shall determine for the most recent previous 5-fiscal-year period for which data are available, the total number of aliens who are natives of each foreign state and who (i) were admitted or otherwise provided lawful permanent resident status (other than under this subsection) and (ii) were subject to the numerical limitations of section 1151(a) of this title (other than paragraph (3) thereof) or who were admitted or otherwise provided lawful permanent resident status as an immediate relative or other alien described in section 1151(b)(2) of this title.

(B) Identification of high-admission and low-admission regions and high-admission and low-admission states

The Attorney General—

(i) shall identify—

(I) each region (each in this paragraph referred to as a "high-admission region") for which the total of the numbers determined under subparagraph (A) for states in the region is greater than 1/6 of the total of all such numbers, and

(II) each other region (each in this paragraph referred to as a "low-admission region"); and

(ii) shall identify—

(I) each foreign state for which the number determined under subparagraph (A) is greater than 50,000 (each such state in this paragraph referred to as a "high-admission state"), and

(II) each other foreign state (each such state in this paragraph referred to as a "low-admission state").

(C) Determination of percentage of worldwide immigration attributable to high-admission regions

The Attorney General shall determine the percentage of the total of the numbers determined under subparagraph (A) that are numbers for foreign states in high-admission regions.

(D) Determination of regional populations excluding high-admission states and ratios of populations of regions within low-admission regions and high-admission regions The Attorney General shall determine—

(i) based on available estimates for each region, the total population of each region not including the population of any high-admission state;

(ii) for each low-admission region, the ratio of the population of the region determined under clause (i) to the total of the populations determined under such clause for all the low-admission regions; and

(iii) for each high-admission region, the ratio of the population of the region determined under clause (i) to the total of the populations determined under such clause for all the high-admission regions.

(E) Distribution of visas

(i) No visas for natives of high-admission states

The percentage of visas made available under this paragraph to natives of a high-admission state is 0.

(ii) For low-admission states in low-admission regions

Subject to clauses (iv) and (v), the percentage of visas made available under this paragraph to natives (other than natives of a high-admission state) in a low-admission region is the product of—

(I) the percentage determined under subparagraph (C), and

(II) the population ratio for that region determined under subparagraph (D)(ii).

(iii) For low-admission states in high-admission regions

Subject to clauses (iv) and (v), the percentage of visas made available under this paragraph to natives (other than natives of a high-admission state) in a high-admission region is the product of—

(I) 100 percent minus the percentage determined under subparagraph (C), and

(II) the population ratio for that region determined under subparagraph (D)(iii).

(iv) Redistribution of unused visa numbers

If the Secretary of State estimates that the number of immigrant visas to be issued to natives in any region for a fiscal year under this paragraph is less than the number of immigrant visas made available to such natives under this paragraph for the fiscal year, subject to clause (v), the excess visa numbers shall be made available to natives (other than natives of a high-admission state) of the other regions in proportion to the percentages otherwise specified in clauses (ii) and (iii).

(v) Limitation on visas for natives of a single foreign state

The percentage of visas made available under this paragraph to natives of any single foreign state for any fiscal year shall not exceed 7 percent.

(F) "Region" defined

Only for purposes of administering the diversity program under this subsection, Northern Ireland shall be treated as a separate foreign state, each colony or other component or dependent area of a foreign state overseas from the foreign state shall be treated as part of the foreign state, and the areas described in each of the following clauses shall be considered to be a separate region:

(i) Africa.

(ii) Asia.

(iii) Europe.

(iv) North America (other than Mexico).

(v) Oceania.

(vi) South America, Mexico, Central America, and the Caribbean.

(2) Requirement of education or work experience

An alien is not eligible for a visa under this subsection unless the alien—

(A) has at least a high school education or its equivalent, or

(B) has, within 5 years of the date of application for a visa under this subsection, at least 2 years of work experience in an occupation which requires at least 2 years of training or experience.

(3) Maintenance of information

The Secretary of State shall maintain information on the age, occupation, education level, and other relevant characteristics of immigrants issued visas under this subsection.

(d) Treatment of family members

A spouse or child as defined in subparagraph (A), (B), (C), (D), or (E) of section 1101(b)(1) of this title shall, if not otherwise entitled to an immigrant status and the immediate issuance of a visa under subsection (a), (b), or (c) of this section, be entitled to the same status, and the same order of consideration provided in the respective subsection, if accompanying or following to join, the spouse or parent.

(e) Order of consideration

(1) Immigrant visas made available under subsection (a) or (b) of this section shall be issued to eligible immigrants in the order in which a petition in behalf of each such immigrant is filed with the Attorney General (or in the case of special immigrants under section 1101(a)(27)(D) of this title, with the Secretary of State) as provided in section 1154(a) of this title.

(2) Immigrant visa numbers made available under subsection (c) of this section (relating to diversity immigrants) shall be issued to eligible qualified immigrants strictly in a random order established by the Secretary of State for the fiscal year involved.

(3) Waiting lists of applicants for visas under this section shall be maintained in accordance with regulations prescribed by the Secretary of State.

(f) Authorization for issuance

In the case of any alien claiming in his application for an immigrant visa to be described in section 1151(b)(2) of this title or in subsection (a), (b), or (c) of this section, the consular officer shall not grant such status until he has been authorized to do so as provided by section 1154 of this title.

(g) Lists

For purposes of carrying out the Secretary's responsibilities in the orderly administration of this section, the Secretary of State may make reasonable estimates of the anticipated numbers of visas to be issued during any quarter of any fiscal year within each of the categories under subsections (a), (b), and (c) of this section and to rely upon such estimates in authorizing the issuance of visas. The Secretary of State shall terminate the registration of any alien who fails to apply for an immigrant visa within one year following notification to the alien of the availability of such visa, but the Secretary shall reinstate the registration of any such alien who establishes within 2 years following the date of notification of the availability of such visa that such failure to apply was due to circumstances beyond the alien's control.

UNITED STATES CODE

TITLE 8—ALIENS AND NATIONALITY
CHAPTER 12—IMMIGRATION AND NATIONALITY
SUBCHAPTER II—IMMIGRATION
PART IV—INSPECTION, APPREHENSION, EXAMINATION, EXCLUSION, AND REMOVAL

8 U.S.C. § 1225 (2004).

Section 1225. Inspection by immigration officers; expedited removal of inadmissible arriving aliens; referral for hearing

(a) Inspection

(1) Aliens treated as applicants for admission

An alien present in the United States who has not been admitted or who arrives in the United States (whether or not at a designated port of arrival and including an alien who is brought to the United States after having been interdicted in international or United States waters) shall be deemed for purposes of this chapter an applicant for admission.

(2) Stowaways

An arriving alien who is a stowaway is not eligible to apply for admission or to be admitted and shall be ordered removed upon inspection by an immigration officer. Upon such inspection if the alien indicates an intention to apply for asylum under Section 1158 of this title or a fear of persecution, the officer shall refer the alien for an interview under subsection (b)(1)(B) of this section. A stowaway may apply for asylum only if the stowaway is found to have a credible fear of persecution under subsection (b)(1)(B) of this section. In no case may a stowaway be considered an applicant for admission or eligible for a hearing under section 1229a of this title.

(3) Inspection

All aliens (including alien crewmen) who are applicants for admission or otherwise seeking admission or readmission to or transit through the United States shall be inspected by immigration officers.

(4) Withdrawal of application for admission

An alien applying for admission may, in the discretion of the Attorney General and at any time, be permitted to withdraw the application for admission and depart immediately from the United States.

(5) Statements

An applicant for admission may be required to state under oath any information sought by an immigration officer regarding the purposes and intentions of the applicant in seeking admission to the United States, including the applicant's intended length of stay and whether the applicant intends to remain permanently or become a United States citizen, and whether the applicant is inadmissible.

(b) Inspection of applicants for admission

(1) Inspection of aliens arriving in the United States and certain other aliens who have not been admitted or paroled

(A) Screening

(i) In general

If an immigration officer determines that an alien (other than an alien described in subparagraph (F)) who is arriving in the United States or is described in clause (iii) is inadmissible under section 1182(a)(6)(C) or 1182(a)(7) of this title, the officer shall order the alien removed from the United States without further hearing or review unless the alien indicates either an intention to apply for asylum under section 1158 of this title or a fear of persecution.

(ii) Claims for asylum

If an immigration officer determines that an alien (other than an alien described in subparagraph (F)) who is arriving in the United States or is described in clause (iii) is inadmissible under section 1182(a)(6)(C) or 1182(a)(7) of this title and the alien indicates either an intention to apply for asylum under section 1158 of this title or a fear of persecution, the officer shall refer the alien for an interview by an asylum officer under subparagraph (B).

(iii) Application to certain other aliens

(I) In general

The Attorney General may apply clauses (i) and (ii) of this subparagraph to any or all aliens described in subclause (II) as designated by the Attorney General. Such designation shall be in the sole and unreviewable discretion of the Attorney General and may be modified at any time.

(II) Aliens described

An alien described in this clause is an alien who is not described in subparagraph (F), who has not been admitted or paroled into the United States, and who has not affirmatively shown, to the satisfaction of an immigration officer, that the alien has been physically present in the United States continuously for the 2-year period immediately prior to the date of the determination of inadmissibility under this subparagraph.

(B) Asylum interviews

(i) Conduct by asylum officers

An asylum officer shall conduct interviews of aliens referred under subparagraph (A)(ii), either at a port of entry or at such other place designated by the Attorney General.

(ii) Referral of certain aliens

If the officer determines at the time of the interview that an alien has a credible fear of persecution (within the meaning of clause (v)), the alien shall be detained for further consideration of the application for asylum.

(iii) Removal without further review if no credible fear of persecution

(I) In general

Subject to subclause (III), if the officer determines that an alien does not have a credible fear of persecution, the officer shall order the alien removed from the United States without further hearing or review.

(II) Record of determination

The officer shall prepare a written record of a determination under subclause (I). Such record shall include a summary of the material facts as stated by the applicant, such additional facts (if any) relied upon by the officer, and the officer's analysis of why, in the light of such facts, the alien has not established a credible fear of persecution. A copy of the officer's interview notes shall be attached to the written summary.

(III) Review of determination

The Attorney General shall provide by regulation and upon the alien's request for prompt review by an immigration judge of a determination under subclause (I) that the alien does not have a credible fear of persecution. Such review shall include an opportunity for the alien to be heard and questioned by the immigration judge, either in person or by telephonic or video connection. Review shall be concluded as expeditiously as possible, to the maximum extent practicable within 24 hours, but in no case later than 7 days after the date of the determination under subclause (I).

(IV) Mandatory detention

Any alien subject to the procedures under this clause shall be detained pending a final determination of credible fear of persecution and, if found not to have such a fear, until removed.

(iv) Information about interviews

The Attorney General shall provide information concerning the asylum interview described in this subparagraph to aliens who may be eligible. An alien who is eligible for such interview may consult with a person or persons of the alien's choosing prior to the interview or any review thereof, according to regulations prescribed by the Attorney General. Such consultation shall be at no expense to the Government and shall not unreasonably delay the process.

(v) "Credible fear of persecution" defined

For purposes of this subparagraph, the term "credible fear of persecution" means that there is a significant possibility, taking into account the credibility of the statements made by the alien in support of the alien's claim and such other facts as are known to the officer, that the alien could establish eligibility for asylum under section 1158 of this title.

(C) Limitation on administrative review

Except as provided in subparagraph (B)(iii)(III), a removal order entered in accordance with subparagraph (A)(i) or (B)(iii)(I) is not subject to administrative appeal, except that the Attorney General shall provide by regulation for prompt review of such an order under subparagraph (A)(i) against an alien who claims under oath, or as permitted under penalty of perjury under section 1746 of title 28, after having been warned of the penalties for falsely making such claim under such conditions, to have been lawfully admitted for permanent residence, to have been admitted as a refugee under section 1157 of this title, or to have been granted asylum under section 1158 of this title.

(D) Limit on collateral attacks

In any action brought against an alien under section 1325(a) of this title or section 1326 of this title, the court shall not have jurisdiction to hear any claim attacking the validity of an order of removal entered under subparagraph (A)(i) or (B)(iii).

(E) "Asylum officer" defined

As used in this paragraph, the term "asylum officer" means an immigration officer who—

(i) has had professional training in country conditions, asylum law, and interview techniques comparable to that provided to full-time adjudicators of applications under section 1158 of this title, and

(ii) is supervised by an officer who meets the condition described in clause (i) and has had substantial experience adjudicating asylum applications.

(F) Exception

Subparagraph (A) shall not apply to an alien who is a native or citizen of a country in the Western Hemisphere with whose government the United States does not have full diplomatic relations and who arrives by aircraft at a port of entry.

(2) Inspection of other aliens

(A) In general

Subject to subparagraphs (B) and (C), in the case of an alien who is an applicant for admission, if the examining immigration officer determines that an alien seeking admission is not clearly and beyond a doubt entitled to be admitted, the alien shall be detained for a proceeding under section 1229a of this title.

(B) Exception

Subparagraph (A) shall not apply to an alien—

(i) who is a crewman,

(ii) to whom paragraph (1) applies, or

(iii) who is a stowaway.

(C) Treatment of aliens arriving from contiguous territory

In the case of an alien described in subparagraph (A) who is arriving on land (whether or not at a designated port of arrival) from a foreign territory contiguous to the United States, the Attorney General may return the alien to that territory pending a proceeding under section 1229a of this title.

(3) Challenge of decision

The decision of the examining immigration officer, if favorable to the admission of any alien, shall be subject to challenge by any other immigration officer and such challenge shall operate to take the alien whose privilege to be admitted is so challenged, before an immigration judge for a proceeding under section 1229a of this title.

(c) Removal of aliens inadmissible on security and related grounds

(1) Removal without further hearing

If an immigration officer or an immigration judge suspects that an arriving alien may be inadmissible under subparagraph (A) (other than clause (ii)), (B), or (C) of section 1182(a)(3) of this title, the officer or judge shall—

(A) order the alien removed, subject to review under paragraph (2);

(B) report the order of removal to the Attorney General; and

(C) not conduct any further inquiry or hearing until ordered by the Attorney General.

(2) Review of order

(A) The Attorney General shall review orders issued under paragraph (1).

(B) If the Attorney General—

(i) is satisfied on the basis of confidential information that the alien is inadmissible under subparagraph (A) (other than clause (ii)), (B), or (C) of section 1182(a)(3) of this title, and

(ii) after consulting with appropriate security agencies of the United States Government, concludes that disclosure of the information would be prejudicial to the public interest, safety, or security, the Attorney General may order the alien removed without further inquiry or hearing by an immigration judge.

(C) If the Attorney General does not order the removal of the alien under subparagraph (B), the Attorney General shall specify the further inquiry or hearing that shall be conducted in the case.

(3) Submission of statement and information

The alien or the alien's representative may submit a written statement and additional information for consideration by the Attorney General.

(d) Authority relating to inspections

(1) Authority to search conveyances

Immigration officers are authorized to board and search any vessel, aircraft, railway car, or other conveyance or vehicle in which they believe aliens are being brought into the United States.

(2) Authority to order detention and delivery of arriving aliens Immigration officers are authorized to order an owner, agent, master, commanding officer, person in charge, purser, or consignee of a vessel or aircraft bringing an alien (except an alien crewmember) to the United States—

(A) to detain the alien on the vessel or at the airport of arrival, and

(B) to deliver the alien to an immigration officer for inspection or to a medical officer for examination.

(3) Administration of oath and consideration of evidence

The Attorney General and any immigration officer shall have power to administer oaths and to take and consider evidence of or from any person touching the privilege of any alien or person he believes or suspects to be an alien to enter, reenter, transit through, or reside in the United States or concerning any matter which is material and relevant to the enforcement of this chapter and the administration of the Service.

(4) Subpoena authority

(A) The Attorney General and any immigration officer shall have power to require by subpoena the attendance and testimony of witnesses before immigration officers and the production of books, papers, and documents relating to the privilege of any person to enter, reenter, reside in, or pass through the United States or concerning any matter which is material and relevant to the enforcement of this chapter and the administration of the Service, and to that end may invoke the aid of any court of the United States.

(B) Any United States district court within the jurisdiction of which investigations or inquiries are being conducted by an immigration officer may, in the event of neglect or refusal to respond to a subpoena issued under this paragraph or refusal to testify before an immigration officer, issue an order requiring such persons to appear before an immigration officer, produce books, papers, and documents if demanded, and testify, and any failure to obey such order of the court may be punished by the court as a contempt thereof.

8 U.S.C. § 1225a (2004).

Section 1225a. Preinspection at foreign airports

(a) Establishment of preinspection stations

(1) New stations

Subject to paragraph (5), not later than October 31, 1998, the Attorney General, in consultation with the Secretary of State, shall establish and maintain preinspection stations in at least 5 of the foreign airports that are among the 10 foreign airports which the Attorney General identifies as serving as last points of departure for the greatest numbers of inadmissible alien passengers who arrive from abroad by air at ports of entry within the United States. Such preinspection stations shall be in addition to any preinspection stations established prior to September 30, 1996.

(2) Report

Not later than October 31, 1998, the Attorney General shall report to the Committees on the Judiciary of the House of Representatives and of the Senate on the implementation of paragraph (1).

(3) Data collection

Not later than November 1, 1997, and each subsequent November 1, the Attorney General shall compile data identifying—

(A) the foreign airports which served as last points of departure for aliens who arrived by air at United States ports of entry without valid documentation during the preceding fiscal years;

(B) the number and nationality of such aliens arriving from each such foreign airport; and

(C) the primary routes such aliens followed from their country of origin to the United States.

(4) Additional stations

Subject to paragraph (5), not later than October 31, 2000, the Attorney General, in consultation with the Secretary of State, shall establish preinspection stations in at least 5 additional foreign airports which the Attorney General, in consultation with the Secretary of State, determines, based on the data compiled under paragraph (3) and such other information as may be available, would most effectively reduce the number of aliens who arrive from abroad by air at points of entry within the United States who are inadmissible to the United States. Such preinspection stations shall be in addition to those established prior to September 30, 1996, or pursuant to paragraph (1).

(5) Conditions

Prior to the establishment of a preinspection station, the Attorney General, in consultation with the Secretary of State, shall ensure that—

(A) employees of the United States stationed at the preinspection station and their accompanying family members will receive appropriate protection;

(B) such employees and their families will not be subject to unreasonable risks to their welfare and safety; and

(C) the country in which the preinspection station is to be established maintains practices and procedures with respect to asylum seekers and refugees in accordance with the Convention Relating to the Status of Refugees (done at Geneva, July 28, 1951), or the Protocol Relating to the Status of Refugees (done at New York, January 31, 1967), or that an alien in the country otherwise has recourse to avenues of protection from return to persecution.

(b) Establishment of carrier consultant program

The Attorney General shall assign additional immigration officers to assist air carriers in the detection of fraudulent documents at foreign airports which, based on the records maintained pursuant to subsection (a)(3) of this section, served as a point of departure for a significant number of arrivals at United States ports of entry without valid documentation, but where no preinspection station exists.

PART IV—INSPECTION, APPREHENSION, EXAMINATION, EXCLUSION, AND REMOVAL

8 U.S.C. § 1228 (2004).

Section 1228.. Expedited removal of aliens convicted of committing aggravated felonies

(a) Removal of criminal aliens

(1) in general

The Attorney General shall provide for the availability of special removal proceedings at certain Federal, State, and local correctional facilities for aliens convicted of any criminal offense covered in section 1227(a)(2)(A)(iii), (B), (C), or (D) of this title, or any offense covered by section 1227(a)(2)(A)(ii) of this title for which both predicate offenses are, without regard to the date of their commission, otherwise covered by section 1227(a)(2)(A)(i) of this title. Such proceedings shall be conducted in conformity with section 1229a of this title (except as otherwise provided in this section), and in a manner which eliminates the need for additional detention at any processing center of the Service and in a manner which assures expeditious removal following the end of the alien's incarceration for the underlying sentence. Nothing in this section shall be construed to create any substantive or procedural right or benefit that is legally enforceable by any party against the United States or its agencies or officers or any other person.

(2) Implementation

With respect to an alien convicted of an aggravated felony who is taken into custody by the Attorney General pursuant to section 1226(c) of this title, the Attorney General shall, to the maximum extent practicable, detain any such felon at a facility at which other such aliens are detained. In the selection of such facility, the Attorney General shall make reasonable efforts to ensure that the alien's access to counsel and right to counsel under section 1362 of this title are not impaired.

(3) Expedited proceedings

(A) Notwithstanding any other provision of law, the Attorney General shall provide for the initiation and, to the extent possible, the completion of removal proceedings, and any administrative appeals thereof, in the case of any alien convicted of an aggravated felony before the alien's release from incarceration for the underlying aggravated felony.

(B) Nothing in this section shall be construed as requiring the Attorney General to effect the removal of any alien sentenced to actual incarceration, before release from the penitentiary or correctional institution where such alien is confined.

(4) Review

(A) The Attorney General shall review and evaluate removal proceedings conducted under this section.

(B) The Comptroller General shall monitor, review, and evaluate removal proceedings conducted under this section. Within 18 months after the effective date of this section, the Comptroller General shall submit a report to such Committees concerning the extent to which removal proceedings conducted under this section may adversely affect the ability of such aliens to contest removal effectively.

(b) Removal of aliens who are not permanent residents

(1) The Attorney General may, in the case of an alien described in paragraph (2), determine the deportability of such alien under section 1227(a)(2)(A)(iii) of this title (relating to conviction of an aggravated felony) and issue an order of removal pursuant to the procedures set forth in this subsection or section 1229a of this title.

(2) An alien is described in this paragraph if the alien—

(A) was not lawfully admitted for permanent residence at the time at which proceedings under this section commenced; or

(B) had permanent resident status on a conditional basis (as described in section 1186a of this title) at the time that proceedings under this section commenced.

(3) The Attorney General may not execute any order described in paragraph (1) until 14 calendar days have passed from the date that such order was issued, unless waived by the alien, in order that the alien has an opportunity to apply for judicial review under section 1252 of this title.

(4) Proceedings before the Attorney General under this subsection shall be in accordance with such regulations as the Attorney General shall prescribe. The Attorney General shall provide that—

(A) the alien is given reasonable notice of the charges and of the opportunity described in subparagraph (C);

(B) the alien shall have the privilege of being represented (at no expense to the government) by such counsel, authorized to practice in such proceedings, as the alien shall choose;

(C) the alien has a reasonable opportunity to inspect the evidence and rebut the charges;

(D) a determination is made for the record that the individual upon whom the notice for the proceeding under this section is served (either in person or by mail) is, in fact, the alien named in such notice;

(E) a record is maintained for judicial review; and (F) the final order of removal is not adjudicated by the same person who issues the charges.

(5) No alien described in this section shall be eligible for any relief from removal that the Attorney General may grant in the Attorney General's discretion.

(c) (FOOTNOTE 1) Presumption of deportability

(FOOTNOTE 1) So in original. Two subsecs. (c) have been enacted.

An alien convicted of an aggravated felony shall be conclusively presumed to be deportable from the United States.

(c) (FOOTNOTE 1) Judicial removal

(1) Authority

Notwithstanding any other provision of this chapter, a United States district court shall have jurisdiction to enter a judicial order of removal at the time of sentencing against an alien who is deportable, if such an order has been requested by the United States Attorney with the concurrence of the Commissioner and if the court chooses to exercise such jurisdiction.

(2) Procedure

(A) The United States Attorney shall file with the United States district court, and serve upon the defendant and the Service, prior to commencement of the trial or entry of a guilty plea a notice of intent to request judicial removal.

(B) Notwithstanding section 1252b (FOOTNOTE 2) of this title, the United States Attorney, with the concurrence of the Commissioner, shall file at least 30 days prior to the date set for sentencing a charge containing factual allegations regarding the alienage of the defendant and identifying the crime or crimes which make the defendant deportable under section 1227(a)(2)(A) of this title.

(FOOTNOTE 2) See References in Text note below.

(C) If the court determines that the defendant has presented substantial evidence to establish prima facie eligibility for relief from removal under this chapter, the Commissioner shall provide the court with a recommendation and report regarding the alien's eligibility for relief. The court shall either grant or deny the relief sought.

(D)(i) The alien shall have a reasonable opportunity to examine the evidence against him or her, to present evidence on his or her own behalf, and to cross-examine witnesses presented by the Government.

(ii) The court, for the purposes of determining whether to enter an order described in paragraph (1), shall only consider evidence that would be admissible in proceedings conducted pursuant to section 1229a of this title.

(iii) Nothing in this subsection shall limit the information a court of the United States may receive or consider for the purposes of imposing an appropriate sentence.

(iv) The court may order the alien removed if the Attorney General demonstrates that the alien is deportable under this chapter.

(3) Notice, appeal, and execution of judicial order of removal (A)(i) A judicial order of removal or denial of such order may be appealed by either party to the court of appeals for the circuit in which the district court is located.

(ii) Except as provided in clause (iii), such appeal shall be considered consistent with the requirements described in section 1252 of this title.

(iii) Upon execution by the defendant of a valid waiver of the right to appeal the conviction on which the order of removal is based, the expiration of the period described in section 1252(b)(1) of this title, or the final dismissal of an appeal from such conviction, the order of removal shall become final and shall be executed at the end of the prison term in accordance with the terms of the order. If the conviction is reversed on direct appeal, the order entered pursuant to this section shall be void.

(B) As soon as is practicable after entry of a judicial order of removal, the Commissioner shall provide the defendant with written notice of the order of removal, which shall designate the defendant's country of choice for removal and any alternate country pursuant to section 1253(a) (FOOTNOTE 2) of this title.

(4) Denial of judicial order

Denial of a request for a judicial order of removal shall not preclude the Attorney General from initiating removal proceedings pursuant to section 1229a of this title upon the same ground of deportability or upon any other ground of deportability provided under section 1227(a) of this title.

(5) Stipulated judicial order of removal

The United States Attorney, with the concurrence of the Commissioner, may, pursuant to Federal Rule of Criminal Procedure 11, enter into a plea agreement which calls for the alien, who is deportable under this chapter, to waive the right to notice and a hearing under this section, and stipulate to the entry of a judicial order of removal from the United States as a condition of the plea agreement or as a condition of probation or supervised release, or both. The United States district court, in both felony and misdemeanor cases, and a United States magistrate judge in misdemeanor cases, may accept such a stipulation and shall have jurisdiction to enter a judicial order of removal pursuant to the terms of such stipulation.

TITLE 8—ALIENS AND NATIONALITY
CHAPTER 12—IMMIGRATION AND NATIONALITY
SUBCHAPTER II—IMMIGRATION
PART IV—INSPECTION, APPREHENSION, EXAMINATION, EXCLUSION, AND REMOVAL

8 U.S.C. § 1229a (2004).

Section 1229a. Removal proceedings

(a) Proceeding

(1) In general

An immigration judge shall conduct proceedings for deciding the inadmissibility or deportability of an alien.

(2) Charges

An alien placed in proceedings under this section may be charged with any applicable ground of inadmissibility under section 1182(a) of this title or any applicable ground of deportability under section 1227(a) of this title.

(3) Exclusive procedures

Unless otherwise specified in this chapter, a proceeding under this section shall be the sole and exclusive procedure for determining whether an alien may be admitted to the United States or, if the alien has been so admitted, removed from the United States. Nothing in this section shall affect proceedings conducted pursuant to section 1228 of this title.

(b) Conduct of proceeding

(1) Authority of immigration judge

The immigration judge shall administer oaths, receive evidence, and interrogate, examine, and cross-examine the alien and any witnesses. The immigration judge may issue subpoenas for the attendance of witnesses and presentation of evidence. The immigration judge shall have authority (under regulations prescribed by the Attorney General) to sanction by civil money penalty any action (or inaction) in contempt of the judge's proper exercise of authority under this chapter.

(2) Form of proceeding

(A) In general

The proceeding may take place—

(i) in person,

(ii) where agreed to by the parties, in the absence of the alien,

(iii) through video conference, or

(iv) subject to subparagraph (B), through telephone conference.

(B) Consent required in certain cases

An evidentiary hearing on the merits may only be conducted through a telephone conference with the consent of the alien involved after the alien has been advised of the right to proceed in person or through video conference.

(3) Presence of alien

If it is impracticable by reason of an alien's mental incompetency for the alien to be present at the proceeding, the Attorney General shall prescribe safeguards to protect the rights and privileges of the alien.

(4) Alien's rights in proceeding

In proceedings under this section, under regulations of the Attorney General—

(A) the alien shall have the privilege of being represented, at no expense to the Government, by counsel of the alien's choosing who is authorized to practice in such proceedings,

(B) the alien shall have a reasonable opportunity to examine the evidence against the alien, to present evidence on the alien's own behalf, and to cross-examine witnesses presented by the Government but these rights shall not entitle the alien to examine such national security information as the Government may proffer in opposition to the alien's admission to the United States or to an application by the alien for discretionary relief under this chapter, and

(C) a complete record shall be kept of all testimony and evidence produced at the proceeding.

(5) Consequences of failure to appear

(A) In general

Any alien who, after written notice required under paragraph (1) or (2) of section 1229(a) of this title has been provided to the alien or the alien's counsel of record, does not attend a proceeding under this section, shall be ordered removed in absentia if the Service establishes by clear, unequivocal, and convincing evidence that the written notice was so provided and that the alien is removable (as defined in subsection (e)(2) of this section). The written notice by the Attorney General shall be considered sufficient for purposes of this subparagraph if provided at the most recent address provided under section 1229(a)(1)(F) of this title.

(B) No notice if failure to provide address information

No written notice shall be required under subparagraph (A) if the alien has failed to provide the address required under section 1229(a)(1)(F) of this title.

(C) Rescission of order

Such an order may be rescinded only—

(i) upon a motion to reopen filed within 180 days after the date of the order of removal if the alien demonstrates that the failure to appear was because of exceptional circumstances (as defined in subsection (e)(1) of this section), or

(ii) upon a motion to reopen filed at any time if the alien demonstrates that the alien did not receive notice in accordance with paragraph (1) or (2) of section 1229(a) of this title or the alien demonstrates that the alien was in Federal or State custody and the failure to appear was through no fault of the alien. The filing of the motion to reopen described in clause (i) or (ii) shall stay the removal of the alien pending disposition of the motion by the immigration judge.

(D) Effect on judicial review

Any petition for review under section 1252 of this title of an order entered in absentia under this paragraph shall (except in cases described in section 1252(b)(5) of this title) be confined to (i) the validity of the notice provided to the alien, (ii) the reasons for the alien's not attending the proceeding, and (iii) whether or not the alien is removable.

(E) Additional application to certain aliens in contiguous territory

The preceding provisions of this paragraph shall apply to all aliens placed in proceedings under this section, including any alien who remains in a contiguous foreign territory pursuant to section 1225(b)(2)(C) of this title.

(6) Treatment of frivolous behavior

The Attorney General shall, by regulation—

(A) define in a proceeding before an immigration judge or before an appellate administrative body under this subchapter, frivolous behavior for which attorneys may be sanctioned,

(B) specify the circumstances under which an administrative appeal of a decision or ruling will be considered frivolous and will be summarily dismissed, and (C) impose appropriate sanctions (which may include suspension and disbarment) in the case of frivolous behavior. Nothing in this paragraph shall be construed as limiting the authority of the Attorney General to take actions with respect to inappropriate behavior.

(7) Limitation on discretionary relief for failure to appear

Any alien against whom a final order of removal is entered in absentia under this subsection and who, at the time of the notice described in paragraph (1) or (2) of section 1229(a) of this title, was provided oral notice, either in the alien's native language or in another language the alien understands, of the time and place of the proceedings and of the consequences under this paragraph of failing, other than because of exceptional circumstances (as defined in subsection (e)(1) of this section) to attend a proceeding under this section, shall not be eligible for relief under section 1229b, 1229c, 1255, 1258, or 1259 of this title for a period of 10 years after the date of the entry of the final order of removal.

(c) Decision and burden of proof

(1) Decision

(A) In general

At the conclusion of the proceeding the immigration judge shall decide whether an alien is removable from the United States. The determination of the immigration judge shall be based only on the evidence produced at the hearing.

(B) Certain medical decisions

If a medical officer or civil surgeon or board of medical officers has certified under section 1222(b) of this title that an alien has a disease, illness, or addiction which would make the alien inadmissible under paragraph (1) of section 1182(a) of this title, the decision of the immigration judge shall be based solely upon such certification.

(2) Burden on alien

In the proceeding the alien has the burden of establishing—

(A) if the alien is an applicant for admission, that the alien is clearly and beyond doubt entitled to be admitted and is not inadmissible under section 1182 of this title; or

(B) by clear and convincing evidence, that the alien is lawfully present in the United States pursuant to a prior admission.

In meeting the burden of proof under subparagraph (B), the alien shall have access to the alien's visa or other entry document, if any, and any other records and documents, not considered by the Attorney General to be confidential, pertaining to the alien's admission or presence in the United States.

(3) Burden on service in cases of deportable aliens

(A) In general

In the proceeding the Service has the burden of establishing by clear and convincing evidence that, in the case of an alien who has been admitted to the United States, the alien is deportable. No decision on deportability shall be valid unless it is based upon reasonable, substantial, and probative evidence.

(B) Proof of convictions

In any proceeding under this chapter, any of the following documents or records (or a certified copy of such an official document or record) shall constitute proof of a criminal conviction:

(i) An official record of judgment and conviction.

(ii) An official record of plea, verdict, and sentence.

(iii) A docket entry from court records that indicates the existence of the conviction.

(iv) Official minutes of a court proceeding or a transcript of a court hearing in which the court takes notice of the existence of the conviction.

(v) An abstract of a record of conviction prepared by the court in which the conviction was entered, or by a State official associated with the State's repository of criminal justice records, that indicates the charge or section of law violated, the disposition of the case, the existence and date of conviction, and the sentence.

(vi) Any document or record prepared by, or under the direction of, the court in which the conviction was entered that indicates the existence of a conviction.

(vii) Any document or record attesting to the conviction that is maintained by an official of a State or Federal penal institution, which is the basis for that institution's authority to assume custody of the individual named in the record.

(C) Electronic records

In any proceeding under this chapter, any record of conviction or abstract that has been submitted by electronic means to the Service from a State or court shall be admissible as evidence to prove a criminal conviction if it is—

(i) certified by a State official associated with the State's repository of criminal justice records as an official record from its repository or by a court official from the court in which the conviction was entered as an official record from its repository, and

(ii) certified in writing by a Service official as having been received electronically from the State's record repository or the court's record repository.

A certification under clause (i) may be by means of a computer-generated signature and statement of authenticity.

(4) Notice

If the immigration judge decides that the alien is removable and orders the alien to be removed, the judge shall inform the alien of the right to appeal that decision and of the consequences for failure to depart under the order of removal, including civil and criminal penalties.

(5) Motions to reconsider

(A) In general

The alien may file one motion to reconsider a decision that the alien is removable from the United States.

(B) Deadline

The motion must be filed within 30 days of the date of entry of a final administrative order of removal.

(C) Contents

The motion shall specify the errors of law or fact in the previous order and shall be supported by pertinent authority.

(6) Motions to reopen

(A) In general

An alien may file one motion to reopen proceedings under this section.

(B) Contents

The motion to reopen shall state the new facts that will be proven at a hearing to be held if the motion is granted, and shall be supported by affidavits or other evidentiary material.

(C) Deadline

(i) In general

Except as provided in this subparagraph, the motion to reopen shall be filed within 90 days of the date of entry of a final administrative order of removal.

(ii) Asylum

There is no time limit on the filing of a motion to reopen if the basis of the motion is to apply for relief under sections (FOOTNOTE 1) 1158 or 1231(b)(3) of this title and is based on changed country conditions arising in the country of nationality or the country to which removal has been ordered, if such evidence is material and was not available and would not have been discovered or presented at the previous proceeding.

(FOOTNOTE 1) So in original.

(iii) Failure to appear

The filing of a motion to reopen an order entered pursuant to subsection (b)(5) of this section is subject to the deadline specified in subparagraph (C) of such subsection.

(iv) Special rule for battered spouses and children

The deadline specified in subsection (b)(5)(C) of this section for filing a motion to reopen does not apply—

(I) if the basis for the motion is to apply for relief under clause (iii) or (iv) of section 1154(a)(1)(A) of this title, clause (ii) or (iii) of section 1154(a)(1)(B) of this title, or section 1229b(b)(2) of this title;

(II) if the motion is accompanied by a cancellation of removal application to be filed with the Attorney General or by a copy of the self-petition that has been or will be filed with the Immigration and Naturalization Service upon the granting of the motion to reopen; and

(III) if the motion to reopen is filed within 1 year of the entry of the final order of removal, except that the Attorney General may, in the Attorney General's discretion, waive this time limitation in the case of an alien who demonstrates extraordinary circumstances or extreme hardship to the alien's child.

(d) Stipulated removal

The Attorney General shall provide by regulation for the entry by an immigration judge of an order of removal stipulated to by the alien (or the alien's representative) and the Service. A stipulated order shall constitute a conclusive determination of the alien's removability from the United States.

(e) Definitions

In this section and section 1229b of this title:

(1) Exceptional circumstances

The term "exceptional circumstances" refers to exceptional circumstances (such as serious illness of the alien or serious illness or death of the spouse, child, or parent of the alien, but not including less compelling circumstances) beyond the control of the alien.

(2) Removable

The term "removable" means—

(A) in the case of an alien not admitted to the United States, that the alien is inadmissible under section 1182 of this title, or

(B) in the case of an alien admitted to the United States, that the alien is deportable under section 1227 of this title.

TITLE 8—ALIENS AND NATIONALITY
CHAPTER 12—IMMIGRATION AND NATIONALITY
SUBCHAPTER II—IMMIGRATION
PART IV—INSPECTION, APPREHENSION, EXAMINATION, EXCLUSION, AND REMOVAL

8 U.S.C. § 1229b (2004).

Section 1229b. Cancellation of removal; adjustment of status

(a) Cancellation of removal for certain permanent residents The Attorney General may cancel removal in the case of an alien who is inadmissible or deportable from the United States if the alien—

(1) has been an alien lawfully admitted for permanent residence for not less than 5 years,

(2) has resided in the United States continuously for 7 years after having been admitted in any status, and

(3) has not been convicted of any aggravated felony.

(b) Cancellation of removal and adjustment of status for certain nonpermanent residents

(1) In general

The Attorney General may cancel removal of, and adjust to the status of an alien lawfully admitted for permanent residence, an alien who is inadmissible or deportable from the United States if the alien—

(A) has been physically present in the United States for a continuous period of not less than 10 years immediately preceding the date of such application;

(B) has been a person of good moral character during such period;

(C) has not been convicted of an offense under section 1182(a)(2), 1227(a)(2), or 1227(a)(3) of this title (except in a case described in section 1227(a)(7) of this title where the Attorney General exercises discretion to grant a waiver); and (D) establishes that removal would result in exceptional and extremely unusual hardship to the alien's spouse, parent, or child, who is a citizen of the United States or an alien lawfully admitted for permanent residence.

(2) Special rule for battered spouse or child

(A) Authority

The Attorney General may cancel removal of, and adjust to the status of an alien lawfully admitted for permanent residence, an alien who is inadmissible or deportable from the United States if the alien demonstrates that—

(i)(I) the alien has been battered or subjected to extreme cruelty by a spouse or parent who is or was a United States citizen (or is the parent of a child of a United States citizen and the child has been battered or subjected to extreme cruelty by such citizen parent);

(II) the alien has been battered or subjected to extreme cruelty by a spouse or parent who is or was a lawful permanent resident (or is the parent of a child of an alien who is or was a lawful permanent resident and the child has been battered or subjected to extreme cruelty by such permanent resident parent); or

(III) the alien has been battered or subjected to extreme cruelty by a United States citizen or lawful permanent resident whom the alien intended to marry, but whose marriage is not legitimate because of that United States citizen's or lawful permanent resident's bigamy;

(ii) the alien has been physically present in the United States for a continuous period of not less than 3 years immediately preceding the date of such application, and the issuance of a charging document for removal proceedings shall not toll the 3-year period of continuous physical presence in the United States;

(iii) the alien has been a person of good moral character during such period, subject to the provisions of subparagraph (C);

(iv) the alien is not inadmissible under paragraph (2) or (3) of section 1182(a) of this title, is not deportable under paragraphs (1)(G) or (2) through (4) of section 1227(a) of this title (except in a case described in section 1227(a)(7) of this title where the Attorney General exercises discretion to grant a waiver), and has not been convicted of an aggravated felony; and

(v) the removal would result in extreme hardship to the alien, the alien's child, or the alien's parent.

(B) Physical presence

Notwithstanding subsection (d)(2) of this section, for purposes of subparagraph (A)(i)(II) or for purposes of section 1254(a)(3) of this title (as in effect before the title III-A effective date in section 309 of the Illegal Immigration Reform and Immigrant Responsibility Act of 1996), an alien shall not be considered to have failed to maintain continuous physical presence by reason of an absence if the alien demonstrates a connection between the absence and the battering or extreme cruelty perpetrated against the alien. No absence or portion of an absence connected to the battering or extreme cruelty shall count toward the 90-day or 180-day limits established in subsection (d)(2) of this section. If any absence or aggregate absences exceed 180 days, the absences or portions of the absences will not be considered to break the period of continuous presence. Any such period of time excluded from the 180-day limit shall be excluded in computing the time during which the alien has been physically present for purposes of the 3-year requirement set forth in subsection (b)(2)(B) of this section and section 1254(a)(3) of this title (as in effect before the title III-A effective date in section 309 of the Illegal Immigration Reform and Immigrant Responsibility Act of (1996).

(C) Good moral character

Notwithstanding section 1101(f) of this title, an act or conviction that does not bar the Attorney General from granting relief under this paragraph by reason of subparagraph (A)(iv) shall not bar the Attorney General from finding the alien to be of good moral character under subparagraph (A)(i)(III) or section 1254(a)(3) of this title (as in effect before the title III-A effective date in section 309 of the Illegal Immigration Reform and Immigrant Responsibility Act of 1996), if the Attorney General finds that the act or conviction was connected to the alien's having been battered or subjected to extreme cruelty and determines that a waiver is otherwise warranted.

(D) Credible evidence considered

In acting on applications under this paragraph, the Attorney General shall consider any credible evidence relevant to the application. The determination of what evidence is credible and the weight to be given that evidence shall be within the sole discretion of the Attorney General.

(3) Recordation of date

With respect to aliens who the Attorney General adjusts to the status of an alien lawfully admitted for permanent residence under paragraph (1) or (2), the Attorney General shall record the alien's lawful admission for permanent residence as of the date of the Attorney General's cancellation of removal under paragraph (1) or (2).

(4) Children of battered aliens and parents of battered alien children

(A) In general

The Attorney General shall grant parole under section 1182(d)(5) of this title to any alien who is a—

(i) child of an alien granted relief under section 1229b(b)(2) or 1254(a)(3) of this title (as in effect before the title III-A effective date in section 309 of the Illegal Immigration Reform and Immigrant Responsibility Act of 1996); or

(ii) parent of a child alien granted relief under section 1229b(b)(2) or 1254(a)(3) of this title (as in effect before the title III-A effective date in section 309 of the Illegal Immigration Reform and Immigrant Responsibility Act of 1996).

(B) Duration of parole

The grant of parole shall extend from the time of the grant of relief under subsection (b)(2) of this section or section 1254(a)(3) of this title (as in effect before the title III-A effective date in section 309 of the Illegal Immigration Reform and Immigrant Responsibility Act of 1996) to the time the application for adjustment of status filed by aliens covered under this paragraph has been finally adjudicated.

Applications for adjustment of status filed by aliens covered under this paragraph shall be treated as if they were applications filed under section 1154(a)(1)(A)(iii), (A)(iv), (B)(ii), or (B)(iii) of this title for purposes of section 1255 (a) and (c) of this title. Failure by the alien granted relief under subsection (b)(2) of this section or section 1254(a)(3) of this title (as in effect before the title III-A effective date in section 309 of the Illegal Immigration Reform and Immigrant Responsibility Act of 1996) to exercise due diligence in filing a visa petition on behalf of an alien described in clause (i) or (ii) may result in revocation of parole.

(c) Aliens ineligible for relief

The provisions of subsections (a) and (b)(1) of this section shall not apply to any of the following aliens:

(1) An alien who entered the United States as a crewman subsequent to June 30, 1964.

(2) An alien who was admitted to the United States as a nonimmigrant exchange alien as defined in section 1101(a)(15)(J) of this title, or has acquired the status of such a nonimmigrant exchange alien after admission, in order to receive graduate medical education or training, regardless of whether or not the alien is subject to or has fulfilled the two-year foreign residence requirement of section 1182(e) of this title.

(3) An alien who—

(A) was admitted to the United States as a non-immigrant exchange alien as defined in section 1101(a)(15)(J) of this title or has acquired the status of such a nonimmigrant exchange alien after admission other than to receive graduate medical education or training,

(B) is subject to the two-year foreign residence requirement of section 1182(e) of this title, and

(C) has not fulfilled that requirement or received a waiver thereof.

(4) An alien who is inadmissible under section 1182(a)(3) of this title or deportable under section 1227(a)(4) of this title.

(5) An alien who is described in section 1231(b)(3)(B)(i) of this title.

(6) An alien whose removal has previously been cancelled under this section or whose deportation was suspended under section 1254(a) of this title or who has been granted relief under section 1182(c) of this title, as such sections were in effect before September 30, 1996.

(d) Special rules relating to continuous residence or physical presence

(1) Termination of continuous period

For purposes of this section, any period of continuous residence or continuous physical presence in the United States shall be deemed to end (A) except in the case of an alien who applies for cancellation of removal under subsection (b)(2) of this section, when the alien is served a notice to appear under section 1229(a) of this title, or (B) when the alien has committed an offense referred to in section 1182(a)(2) of this title that renders the alien inadmissible to the United States under section 1182(a)(2) of this title or removable from the United States under section 1227(a)(2) or 1227(a)(4) of this title, whichever is earliest.

(2) Treatment of certain breaks in presence

An alien shall be considered to have failed to maintain continuous physical presence in the United States under subsections (b)(1) and (b)(2) of this section if the alien has departed from the United States for any period in excess of 90 days or for any periods in the aggregate exceeding 180 days.

(3) Continuity not required because of honorable service in Armed Forces and presence upon entry into service The requirements of continuous residence or continuous physical presence in the United States under subsections (a) and (b) of this section shall not apply to an alien who—

(A) has served for a minimum period of 24 months in an active-duty status in the Armed Forces of the United States and, if separated from such service, was separated under honorable conditions, and

(B) at the time of the alien's enlistment or induction was in the United States.

(e) Annual limitation

(1) Aggregate limitation

Subject to paragraphs (2) and (3), the Attorney General may not cancel the removal and adjust the status under this section, nor suspend the deportation and adjust the status under section 1254(a) of this title (as in effect before September 30, 1996), of a total of more than 4,000 aliens in any fiscal year. The previous sentence shall apply regardless of when an alien applied for such cancellation and adjustment, or such suspension and adjustment, and whether such an alien had previously applied for suspension of deportation under such section 1254(a) of this title. The numerical limitation under this paragraph shall apply to the aggregate number of decisions in any fiscal year to cancel the removal (and adjust the status) of an alien, or suspend the deportation (and adjust the status) of an alien, under this section or such section 1254(a) of this title.

(2) Fiscal year 1997

For fiscal year 1997, paragraph (1) shall only apply to decisions to cancel the removal of an alien, or suspend the deportation of an alien, made after April 1, 1997.

Notwithstanding any other provision of law, the Attorney General may cancel the removal or suspend the deportation, in addition to the normal allotment for fiscal year 1998, of a number of aliens equal to 4,000 less the number of such cancellations of removal and suspensions of deportation granted in fiscal year 1997 after April 1, 1997.

(3) Exception for certain aliens

Paragraph (1) shall not apply to the following:

(A) Aliens described in section 309(c)(5)(C)(i) of the Illegal Immigration Reform and Immigrant Responsibility

Act of 1996 (as amended by the Nicaraguan Adjustment and Central American Relief Act).

(B) Aliens in deportation proceedings prior to Apri! 1, 1997, who applied for suspension of deportation under section 1254(a)(3) of this title (as in effect before September 30, 1996).

PART V—ADJUSTMENT AND CHANGE OF STATUS

8 U.S.C. § 1252 (2004).

Sec. 1252. Judicial review of orders of removal

(a) Applicable provisions

(1) General orders of removal

Judicial review of a final order of removal (other than an order of removal without a hearing pursuant to section 1225(b)(1) of this title) is governed only by chapter 158 of title 28, except as provided in subsection (b) of this section and except that the court may not order the taking of additional evidence under section 2347(c) of such title.

(2) Matters not subject to judicial review

(A) Review relating to section 1225(b)(1)

Notwithstanding any other provision of law, no court shall have jurisdiction to review—

(i) except as provided in subsection (e) of this section, any individual determination or to entertain any other cause or claim arising from or relating to the implementation or operation of an order of removal pursuant to section 1225(b)(1) of this title,

(ii) except as provided in subsection (e) of this section, a decision by the Attorney General to invoke the provisions of such section,

(iii) the application of such section to individual aliens, including the determination made under section 1225(b)(1)(B) of this title, or

(iv) except as provided in subsection (e) of this section, procedures and policies adopted by the Attorney General to implement the provisions of section 1225(b)(1) of this title.

(B) Denials of discretionary relief

Notwithstanding any other provision of law, no court shall have jurisdiction to review—

(i) any judgment regarding the granting of relief under section 1182(h), 1182(i), 1229b, 1229c, or 1255 of this title, or

(ii) any other decision or action of the Attorney General the authority for which is specified under this subchapter to be in the discretion of the Attorney General, other than the granting of relief under section 1158(a) of this title.

Section 1254. Courts of appeals; certiorari; certified questions

Cases in the courts of appeals may be reviewed by the Supreme Court by the following methods:

(1) By writ of certiorari granted upon the petition of any party to any civil or criminal case, before or after rendition of judgment or decree;

(2) By certification at any time by a court of appeals of any question of law in any civil or criminal case as to which instructions are desired, and upon such certification the Supreme Court may give binding instructions or require the entire record to be sent up for decision of the entire matter in controversy.

TITLE 8—ALIENS AND NATIONALITY
CHAPTER I—IMMIGRATION AND NATURALIZATION SERVICE, DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE
PART 1—DEFINITIONS—Table of Contents

8 C.F.R. § 1.1 (2004).

Sec. 1.1 Definitions.

As used in this chapter:

(a) The terms defined in section 101 of the Immigration and Nationality Act (66 Stat. 163) shall have the meanings ascribed to them in that section and as supplemented, explained, and further defined in this chapter.

(b) The term Act means the Immigration and Nationality Act, as amended.

(c) The term Service means the Immigration and Naturalization Service.

(d) The term Commissioner means the Commissioner of Immigration and Naturalization.

(e) The term Board means the Board of Immigration Appeals.

(f) The term attorney means any person who is a member in good standing of the bar of the highest court of any State, possession, territory, Commonwealth, or the District of Columbia, and is not under any order of any court suspending, enjoining, restraining, disbarring, or otherwise restricting him in the practice of law.

(g) Unless the context otherwise requires, the term case means any proceeding arising under any immigration or naturalization law, Executive order, or Presidential proclamation, or preparation for or incident to such proceeding, including preliminary steps by any private person or corporation preliminary to the filing of the application or petition by which any proceeding under the jurisdiction of the Service or the Board is initiated.

(h) The term day when computing the period of time for taking any action provided in this chapter including the taking of an appeal, shall include Saturdays, Sundays, and legal holidays, except that when the last day of the period so computed falls on a Saturday, Sunday or a legal holiday, the period shall run until the end of the next day which is not a Saturday, Sunday, nor a legal holiday.

(i) The term practice means the act or acts of any person appearing in any case, either in person or through the preparation or filing of any brief or other document, paper, application, or petition on behalf of another person or client before or with the Service, or any officer of the Service, or the Board.

(j) The term representative refers to a person who is entitled to represent others as provided in Secs. 292.1(a) (2), (3), (4), (5), (6), and 292.1(b) of this chapter.

(k) The term preparation, constituting practice, means the study of the facts of a case and the applicable laws, coupled with the giving of advice and auxiliary activities, including the incidental preparation of papers, but does not include the lawful functions of a notary public or service consisting solely of assistance in the completion of blank spaces on printed Service forms by one whose remuneration, if any, is nominal and who does not hold himself out as qualified in legal matters or in immigration and naturalization procedure.

(l) The term immigration judge means an attorney whom the Attorney General appoints as an administrative judge within the Executive Office for Immigration Review, qualified to conduct specified classes of proceedings, including a hearing under section 240 of the Act. An immigration judge shall be subject to such supervision and shall perform such duties as the Attorney General shall prescribe, but shall not be employed by the Immigration and Naturalization Service.

(m) The term representation before the Board and the Service includes practice and preparation as defined in paragraphs (i) and (k) of this section.

(n) The term Executive Office means Executive Office for Immigration Review.

(o) The term director means either district director or regional service center director, unless otherwise specified.

(p) The term lawfully admitted for permanent residence means the status of having been lawfully accorded the privilege of residing permanently in the United States as an immigrant in accordance with the immigration laws, such status not having changed. Such [[Page 10]] status terminates upon entry of a final administrative order of exclusion or deportation.

(q) The term arriving alien means an applicant for admission coming or attempting to come into the United States at a port-of-entry, or an alien seeking transit through the United States at a port-of-entry, or an alien interdicted in international or United States waters and brought into the United States by any means, whether or not to a designated port-of-entry, and regardless of the means of transport. An arriving alien remains such even if paroled pursuant to section 212(d)(5) of the Act, except that an alien who was paroled before April 1, 1997, or an alien who was granted advance parole which the alien applied for and obtained in the United States prior to the alien's departure from and return to the United States, shall not be considered an arriving alien for purposes of section 235(b)(1)(A)(i) of the Act.

(r) The term respondent means a person named in a Notice to Appear issued in accordance with section 239(a) of the Act, or in an Order to Show Cause issued in accordance with Sec. 242.1 of this chapter as it existed prior to April 1, 1997.

(s) The term Service counsel means any immigration officer assigned to represent the Service in any proceeding before an immigration judge or the Board of Immigration Appeals.

(t) The term aggravated felony means a crime (or a conspiracy or attempt to commit a crime) described in section 101(a)(43) of the Act. This definition is applicable to any proceeding, application, custody determination, or adjudication pending on or after September 30, 1996, but shall apply under section 276(b) of the Act only to violations of section 276(a) of the Act occurring on or after that date.

TITLE 8—ALIENS AND NATIONALITY

CHAPTER I—IMMIGRATION AND NATURALIZATION SERVICE, DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE
PART 245—ADJUSTMENT OF STATUS TO THAT OF PERSON ADMITTED FOR PERMANENT RESIDENCE—Table of Contents

8 C.F.R. § 245.2 (2004).

Sec. 245.2 Application.

(a) General—(1) Jurisdiction. An alien who believes he or she meets the eligibility requirements of section 245 of the Act or section 1 of the Act of November 2, 1966, and Sec. 245.1 shall apply to the director having jurisdiction over his or her place of residence unless otherwise instructed in 8 CFR part 245, or by the instruction on the application form. After an alien, other than an arriving alien, is in deportation or removal proceedings, his or her application for adjustment of status under section 245 of the Act or section 1 of the Act of November 2, 1966 shall be made and considered only in those proceedings. An arriving alien, other than an alien in removal proceedings, who believes he or she meets the eligibility requirements of section 245 of the Act or section 1 of the Act of November 2, 1966, and Sec. 245.1 shall apply to the director having jurisdiction over his or her place of arrival. An adjustment application by an alien paroled under section 212(d)(5) of the Act, which has been denied by the director, may be renewed in removal proceedings under 8 CFR part 240 only if:

(i) The denied application must have been properly filed subsequent to the applicant's earlier inspection and admission to the United States; and

(ii) The applicant's later absence from and return to the United States was under the terms of an advance parole authorization on Form I-512 granted to permit the applicant's absence and return to pursue the previously filed adjustment application.

(2) Proper filing of application—(i) Under section 245. (A) An immigrant visa must be immediately available in order for an alien to properly file an adjustment appli cation under section 245 of the Act See Sec. 245.1(g)(1) to determine whether an immigrant visa is immediately available.

(B) If, at the time of filing, approval of a visa petition filed for classification under section 201(b)(2)(A)(i), section 203(a) or section 203(b)(1), (2) or (3) of the Act would make a visa immediately available to the alien beneficiary, the alien beneficiary's adjustment application will be considered properly filed whether submitted concurrently with or subsequent to the visa petition, provided that it meets the filing requirements contained in parts 103 and 245. For any other classification, the alien beneficiary may file the adjustment application only after the Service has approved the visa petition.

(C) A visa petition and an adjustment application are concurrently filed only if:

(1) The visa petitioner and adjustment applicant each file their respective form at the same time, bundled together within a single mailer or delivery packet, with the proper filing fees on the same day and at the same Service office, or;

(2) the visa petitioner filed the visa petition, for which a visa number has become immediately available, on, before or after July 31, 2002, and the adjustment applicant files the adjustment application, together with the proper filing fee and a copy of the Form I-797, Notice of Action, establishing the receipt and acceptance by the Service of the underlying Form I-140 visa petition, at the same Service office at which the visa petitioner filed the visa petition, or;

(3) The visa petitioner filed the visa petition, for which a visa number has become immediately available, on, before, or after July 31, 2002, and the adjustment applicant files the adjustment application, together with proof of payment of the filing fee with the Service and a copy of the Form I-797 Notice of Action establishing the receipt and acceptance by the Service of the underlying Form I-140 visa petition, with the Immigration Court or the Board of Immigration Appeals when jurisdiction lies under paragraph (a)(1) of this section.

(ii) Under the Act of November 2, 1966. An application for the benefits of section 1 of the Act of November 2, 1966 is not properly filed unless the applicant was inspected and admitted or paroled into the United States subsequent to January 1, 1959. An applicant is ineligible for the benefits of the Act of November 2, 1966 unless he or she has been physically present in the United States [[Page 562]] for one year (amended from two years by the Refugee Act of 1980).

(3) Submission of documents—(i) General. A separate application shall be filed by each applicant for benefits under section 245, or the Act of November 2, 1966. Each application shall be accompanied by an executed Form G-325A, if the applicant has reached his or her 14th birthday. Form G-325A shall be considered part of the application. An application under this part shall be accompanied by the document specified in the instructions which are attached to the application.

(ii) Under section 245. An application for adjustment of status is submitted on Form I-485, Application for Permanent Residence. The application must be accompanied by the appropriate fee as explained in the instructions to the application.

(iii) Under section 245(i). An alien who seeks adjustment of status under the provisions of section 245(i) of the Act must file Form I-485, with the required fee. The alien must also file Supplement A to Form I-485, with any required additional sum.

(iv) Under the Act of November 2, 1966. An application for adjustment of status is made on Form I-485A. The application must be accompanied by Form I-643, Health and Human Services Statistical Data Sheet. The application must include a clearance from the local police jurisdiction for any area in the United States when the applicant has lived for six months or more since his or her 14th birthday.

(4) Effect of departure—(i) General. The effect of a departure from the United States is dependent upon the law under which the applicant is applying for adjustment.

(ii) Under section 245 of the Act. (A) The departure from the United States of an applicant who is under exclusion, deportation, or removal proceedings shall be deemed an abandonment of the application constituting grounds for termination of the proceeding by reason of the departure. Except as provided in paragraph (a)(4)(ii)(B) and (C) of this section, the departure of an applicant who is not under exclusion, deportation, or removal proceedings shall be deemed an abandonment of the application constituting grounds for termination of any pending application for adjustment of status, unless the applicant was previously granted advance parole by the Service for such absences, and was inspected upon returning to the United States. If the adjustment application of an individual granted advance parole is subsequently denied the individual will be treated as an applicant for admission, and subject to the provisions of section 212 and 235 of the Act.

(B) The travel outside of the United States by an applicant for adjustment who is not under exclusion, deportation, or removal proceedings shall not be deemed an abandonment of the application if he or she was previously granted advance parole by the Service for such absences, and was inspected and paroled upon returning to the United States. If the adjustment of status application of such individual is subsequently denied, he or she will be treated as an applicant for admission, and subject to the provisions of section 212 and 235 of the Act.

(C) The travel outside of the United States by an applicant for adjustment of status who is not under exclusion, deportation, or removal proceeding and who is in lawful H-1 or L-1 status shall not be deemed an abandonment of the application if, upon returning to this country, the alien remains eligible for H or L status, is coming to resume employment with the same employer for whom he or she had previously been authorized to work as an H-1 or L-1 nonimmigrant, and, is in possession of a valid H or L visa (if required) and the original I-797 receipt notice for the application for adjustment of status. The travel outside of the United States by an applicant for adjustment of status who is not under exclusion, deportation, or removal proceeding and who is in lawful H-4 or L-2 status shall not be deemed an abandonment of the application if the spouse or parent of such alien through whom the H-4 or L-2 status was obtained is maintaining H-1 or L-1 status and the alien remains otherwise eligible for H-4 or L-2 status, and, the alien is in possession of a valid H-4 or L-2 visa (if required) and the original copy of the I-797 receipt notice for the application for adjustment of status. The travel outside of the United [[Page 563]] States by an applicant for adjustment of status, who is not under exclusion, deportation, or removal proceeding and who is in lawful K-3 or K-4 status shall not be deemed an abandonment of the application if, upon returning to this country, the alien is in possession of a valid K-3 or K-4 visa and remains eligible for K-3 or K-4 status.

(D) The travel outside of the United States by an applicant for adjustment of status who is not under exclusion, deportation, or removal proceeding and who is in lawful V status shall not be deemed an abandonment of the application if, upon returning to this country, the alien is admissible as a V nonimmigrant.

(iii) Under the Act of November 2, 1966. If an applicant who was admitted or paroled subsequent to January 1, 1959, later departs from the United States temporarily with no intention of abandoning his or her residence, and is readmitted or paroled upon return, the temporary absence shall be disregarded for purposes of the applicant's "last arrival" into the United States in regard to cases filed under section 1 of the Act of November 2, 1966.

(5) Decision—(i) General. The applicant shall be notified of the decision of the director and, if the application is denied, the reasons for the denial.

(ii) Under section 245 of the Act. If the application is approved, the applicant's permanent residence shall be recorded as of the date of the order approving the adjustment of status. An application for adjustment of status, as a preference alien, shall not be approved until an immigrant visa number has been allocated by the Department of State, except when the applicant has established eligibility for the benefits of Public Law 101-238. No appeal lies from the denial of an application by the director, but the applicant, if not an arriving alien, retains the right to renew his or her application in proceedings under 8 CFR part 240. Also, an applicant who is a parolee and meets the two conditions described in Sec. 245.2(a)(1) may renew a denied application in proceedings under 8 CFR part 240 to determine admissibility. At the time of renewal of the application, an applicant does not need to meet the statutory requirement of section 245(c) of the Act, or Sec. 245.1(g), if, in fact, those requirements were met at the time the renewed application was initially filed with the director. Nothing in this section shall entitle an alien to proceedings under section 240 of the Act who is not otherwise so entitled.

(iii) Under the Act of November 2, 1966. If the application is approved, the applicant's permanent residence shall be recorded in accordance with the provisions of section 1. No appeal lies from the denial of an application by the director, but the applicant, if not an arriving alien, retains the right to renew his or her application in proceedings under 8 CFR part 240. Also, an applicant who is a parolee and meets the two conditions described in Sec. 245.2(a)(1) may renew a denied application in proceedings under 8 CFR part 240 to determine admissibility.

(b) Application under section 2 of the Act of November 2, 1966. An application by a native or citizen of Cuba or by his spouse or child residing in the United States with him, who was lawfully admitted to the United States for permanent residence prior to November 2, 1966, and who desires such admission to be recorded as of an earlier date pursuant to section 2 of the Act of November 2, 1966, shall be made on Form I-485A. The application shall be accompanied by the Permanent Resident Card, Form I-151 or I-551, issued to the applicant in connection with his lawful admission for permanent residence, and shall be submitted to the director having jurisdiction over the applicant's place of residence in the United States. The decision on the application shall be made by the director. No appeal shall lie from his decision. If the application is approved, the applicant will be furnished with a replacement of his Form I-151 or I-551 bearing the new date as of which the lawful admission for permanent residence has been recorded.

(c) Application under section 214(d) of the Act. An application for permanent resident status pursuant to section 214(d) of the Act shall be filed on Form I-485 with the director having jurisdiction over the applicant's place of residence. A separate application shall be filed by each applicant. If the application is approved, the director shall [[Page 564]] record the lawful admission of the applicant as of the date of approval. The applicant shall be notified of the decision and, if the application is denied, of the reasons therefor. No appeal shall lie from the denial of an application by the director but such denial shall be without prejudice to the alien's right to renew his or her application in proceedings under 8 CFR part 240.

8 C.F.R. § 245.6 (2004).

Sec. 245.6 Interview

Each applicant for adjustment of status under this part shall be interviewed by an immigration officer. This interview may be waived in the case of a child under the age of 14; when the applicant is clearly ineligible under section 245(c) of the Act or Sec. 245.1 of this chapter; or when it is determined by the Service that an interview is unnecessary.
